CHINA RUSHES TROOPS TO STOP NEW MASSACRES

PEKIN, April 18.—Mobs to-day rescued from the authorities the leaders of yesterday's riots at Hankow, as they were about to be executed. Mutinous troops helped the anti-foreign rioters.

The Government is greatly alarmed over the situation in Hunan and adjoining provinces. Troops are being hastened to several important points and efforts made to facilitate the movement of rice.

24,000 ARE KILLED IN CHINESE RIOTS

HANKOW, China, April 18.—After five days of rioting a semblance of order was restored at Chang Sha to-day, although the city, fired by the anti-foreign and anti-government mobs was still burning in several quarters. Beyond the city, however, turbulance is increasing.

"Kill the foreigners" is the word being carried by rebel messengers.

Twenty-four thousand Chinese have been killed.

The province of Hunan, in which is Chang Sha is aflame.

The long existent anti-foreign spirit in Hupeh, the province to the north, is becoming more serious, according to advices received here to-day.

Fears are felt for the Presbyterian mission at Chang Te Hunan, a hundred miles from Chang Sha.

Rioting has broken out in Hankow and further difficulty is anticipated. The missionaries and other foreigners who have taken refuge here are safe, however. Reports from Chang Sha to-day said that the 2,000 troops rushed there by the Viceroy of Hupeh, had mutinied following the example of the 6,000 soldiers stationed at Chang Sha. More troops were sent to the city to-day.

Incendiary rebels are stirring up the populace in Hupeh.

Warships Rushed to Scene.

The British gunboat Thistle, delayed at Yochow by low water while trying to reach Chang Sha to-day, made further attempts to advance. The French cruiser Algier is on its way here.

All buildings owned or rented by foreigners in Chang-Sha have been destroyed and looted. All Europeans and Americans have left the city and it is believed have escaped in safety. Some, it is feared, perished in the fires. Others are believed to have been lost in a junk which collided with the British gunboat Thistle, on the way to rescue them.

All efforts made to-day to ascertain the fate of the American missionaries stationed at Changsha have been fruitless. It is feared that they have been massacred in the anti-foreign riots, which grew out of the rice riots, according to latest reports, has taken such a turn that the end cannot be foreseen.

Government Helpless.

The exodus of the missionaries and the foreign consuls began upon the publication of a proclamation by the governor

RUSSELL COST NEAR $300,000

The Russell estate, over which the longest will contest in the legal history of the world took place, it became known to-day, has depreciated as a result of the costly litigation from about $750,000 to $480,000.

The fight that has been made to disprove Dakota Dan Blake Russell's claim that he is a brother of William C. Russell, cost the latter nearly $300,000.

The present amount of the Russell fortune was stated to-day by Lawyer Odlin. The lawyer declared that there had been no division of the property between William C. Russell and Fresno Dan Blake Russell, who has been acknowledged as the missing heir.

Mr. Odlin said: "Middlesex County cannot compel either William C. Russell nor Ferdinand C. Almy to file an account of the present standing of the estate. Any statement that any of the money of the estate has been squandered is propesterous. The money that has been spent has been expended for legitimate purposes only."

Cartwright Going Home.

Senator George W. Cartwright of Fresno, who brought "Fresno Dan" to Boston, is going home to-morrow. He said:

"My work here was finished when W. C. Russell recognized my client as his brother. Any further legal matters will be looked after by Boston attorneys."

Attorney Simpson, counsel for "Dakota Dan," is expected back in Boston from New York to-morrow, and an appeal may be filed with the Supreme Court by Wednesday.

Charles Storey of No. 12 Haven street, Reading, and George Story of No. 29 Mt. Pleasant avenue, Roxbury, brothers, say that "Fresno Dan" is not Daniel Blake Russell. They met him in Attorney Odlin's office and claim that "Fresno" could only identify one of the Story brothers, and then did not remember his first name.

"I first asked him if he knew who I was," said Charles Story, "and he said he did not. If he had been Daniel Blake Russell he would have known he, as I was in Dan's company as much as any boy in Melrose and left town the same day he did.

"He said I lived on Wyoming avenue, which was correct, but could not tell me who owned the house, although it was owned by Mr. Kimball, Dan's uncle. The real Dan knew that as well as he knew his own name.

Old Names Forgotten.

"I next asked him who ran the strawberry patch near his father's house and he could not tell me. A man named Green ran it, and Daniel Blake Russell knew it. He remembered that there was a Spiritualist camping ground but could not tell any of the buildings surrounding it. Those buildings were known by everybody. I asked him about one in particular and he could not recall anything about it.

"Now, the fact is, one of those buildings was burned down and Daniel Blake Russell accused me at the time of setting fire to it. Dakota Dan recalled the fire and he recognized me, but Fresno Dan knew nothing of the incident.

"With reference to his father's potato patch he did state correctly that his father buried some potatoes, but when I asked him about a certain occasion when some potatoes were buried, and who buried them, he could not answer me. Dakota Dan said that my brother William, employed by his father, buried them, which was correct.

"He did remember the names of the people who were employed on the estate and the location of several buildings in Melrose, also the names of the teachers who taught school.

Sure "Fresno" is Real Dan.

"After that conversation I was positive that I had not been talking to Daniel Blake Russell of Melrose, and that if his brother William had received him as such he had made a big mistake. I know Daniel Blake Russell and 'Fresno Dan' is not he."

Mrs. E. Moulton of Newtonville positively identified Fresno Dan yesterday as the real Daniel Blake Russell at her home. She chatted with him for an hour. She was a personal friend of the Russell family and called there frequently.

GOVERNMENT OUT TO BREAK COTTON POOL

NEW YORK, April 18.—The United States Government to-day took a hand in the war for the control of the cotton market precipitated by James A. Patten, the Chicago wheat king. Several prominent members of the cotton exchange, it was learned in Wall Street, have been subpoenaed by United States Commissioner Shields to appear in court and explain their dealings in connection with the recent manipulation of the price of cotton.

The Government interference is believed to have been inspired by the bears, who, realizing that they were fighting a losing battle, made a dying effort to turn defeat into victory.

It was reported that the basis for to-day's action is an agreement, said to be in writing, between the bulls and the big Southern cotton mills.

$11,000,000 Deal Involved.

Those who have been active in the successful fight to raise prices are Patten, E. S. Scales, who was associated with the wheat king in his recent dealings in Chicago; Frank B. Hayne and William Brown, both prominent dealers in the cotton market, and a man named Rothschild.

The bears who opposed them and who have been trying unsuccessfully to lower prices are McFadden Brothers of Philadelphia, several other big stock houses and some English operators.

The Southern spot houses, Wall Street heard to-day, made a written agreement to take off the hands of the bulls all the cotton they had on their hands up to 150,000 bales. This transaction would involve between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000.

Unfairness Charged.

The spot houses, in their turn, are reported to have made an agreement with spinners to turn the supply over to them. By this agreement it is said the bulls here could buy all the cotton offered in the market. It would have required a large fortune to carry this big supply, but by the alleged contract they were able to dispose of it immediately.

The pending fight for control of the market has been unusually bitter and charges of unfair tactics by one side have been met with counter allegation by the other side that false statements have been issued and other unfair tactics adopted.

TAFT SPEECH OPENS D. A. R. CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, April 18.—With a welcome by President Taft to-day, the nineteenth annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution began in Continental Memorial Hall. The great auditorium of the building, one of the most beautiful in the United States, was gay with bunting and flags.

A distinguished company occupied the stage. The auditorium was thronged with nearly 1,000 delegates from every section of the country. Never before have the Daughters taken so great an interest in an annual convention. This congress is a notable one, because it marks the completion of the memorial hall and because of the big row that is impending between the administration of President Mrs. Matthew T. Scott and those who oppose her policies.

Addresses were delivered by President Taft, John Barrett, director of the International Bureau of American Republics; and Judge Morris B. Beardsley, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution. President General Scott delivered a brief address formally opening the congress. Responses were made by Mrs. John R. Walker, Mrs. Daniel Lathrop, Mrs. Sarah B. Morgan, and Mrs. John E. Swift.

SIXTY-FIVE IN PARK CLUB 10-MILE RUN

There are sixty-five men entered in the ten-mile cross-country run held by the Murray Park Social Club of East Boston to-morrow morning. The race will go through the best streets of East Boston, starting at the clubhouse and going to the State Bathhouse at Revere Beach and return to the starting point. Many of the men entered in this run are also entered in the big B. A. A. run. Valuable prizes will be given to the winners and a special trophy will be given to the first members of the Murray Park Club to finish.

BRYAN'S ARRIVAL PUT OFF BY FOG

NEW YORK, April 18.—Dense fog to-day delayed the arrival of William J. Bryan from his South American trip on board the steamship Caracas, from Porto Rico.

The Caracas sent a wireless message saying that she had anchored near the Scotland lightship, off the Jersey coast.

6 DEAD, 17 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

JACKSON, Miss., April 18.—An Illinois Central train early to-day plunged over a fifteen-foot bank five miles north of here and the wreckage took fire. Six persons were killed and seventeen injured, several seriously. Several bodies were taken from the debris within a short time. A relief train was rushed from here. The dead are three mail clerks, engineer, fireman and a trainman.

William W. Crane of New Orleans, who was an officer during the recent Shriners drill at New Orleans, was on the train. He organized a relief crew, taking the passengers out through windows. Procuring fire extinguishers from the mail car, Crane and his party then played streams upon the roaring mass of wreckage to save the mail clerks. No passengers were injured.

Officials of the road say the train was deliberately wrecked, the motive being robbery.

RAIN SPOILS OPENING OF BALL SEASON

For the first time since John I. Taylor owned the Boston American League ball club—for the first time in six years—the opening game at the Huntington avenue grounds had to be postponed on account of rain. Elaborate preparations had been made for the start of the American League season in this city. They will all have to go by the board. There will be no game to-day. Invitations will have to be recalled.

To-morrow is Patriots' Day—a holiday—and there will be games morning and afternoon, 10:15 and 3 o'clock, weather permitting. All the seats in the grand stand for to-morrow afternoon have been sold in advance. The only reservations made for the Patriots' Day games were for the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Mayor and a few other distinguished guests.

The rain seems to be general in all the big baseball cities to-day. Reports from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Chicago show that rain is falling in those cities, while at Cincinnati and Detroit the weather is cloudy, with a promise of rain. Snow is falling in St. Louis.

No Game in New York Either.

Early this afternoon came news of other postponements. The opening game in New York between the Giants and Doves was called off, and so, too, were the Brooklyn-Philadelphia and the Athletics-New York games.

The Red Sox management was keenly disappointed that the weather man acted so ugly to-day, but it cannot be helped. It is a part of baseball.

The Red Sox got in last night from Providence, where they had stopped over on their way from New York to play a game with Jimmy Collins's Grays.

Senators in Fine Shape.

The Washington team arrived here early this morning and went, as usual, to the Copley Square Hotel. The team this year is in charge of Jimmy McAleer, formerly manager of the St. Louis Browns. He has a team of veterans, most of them formerly stars of other league clubs—the scrappy Elberfeld, who for years played with the Yanks; Bob Unglaub, formerly manager, captain and first sacker of the Red Sox; Doc Gessler, the heavy-hitting outfielder, who was traded for Pitcher Charlie Smith of the Red Sox; "Dutch" Schaefer, last year with the champion Tigers, and so on.

The Washingtons beat the Athletics two out of three and are going strong. With Walter Johnson in the box they fear no team in the country and as the chances are that Johnson will be the first man to face the Red Sox it will be seen that our fellows have no cinch.

Donovan, however, will doubtless stack Eddie Cicotte, his star, against the clever Johnson, in which case the team behind the great "knuckle ball" artist will not fear an acre of Johnsons.

THE WEATHER.

Showers Monday and probably Tuesday; light to moderate easterly winds becoming variable.

Sun rises 5 a. m., sets 6:28 p. m.
High tide 6:32 a. m., 7:18 p. m.
Moon sets 2:40 a. m.
Comet, rises 3:25 a. m. to-morrow.

RAIN ALL DAY AND TOMORROW, WEATHER CARD

April showers bring May flowers. All right, but what do April blizzards bring?

When you woke up this morning you said: "Ah, the Red Sox open to-day. I think I will have a dead grandmother this afternoon."

And then you looked out the window and got a breath of cold east wind with a dash of biting rain, and poor old grandmother was allowed to live twenty-four hours longer.

But honest, the weather around here is fine compared to what they are getting in Chicago, which is also a big league town. There is a real blizzard, accompanied by snow, rain, hail and wind, stirring things up all through Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and other Western States, and what is being done to gentle Spring is a sin and a shame.

A doleful sound is arising from the fruit farmers, who despair of harvesting more than one-third of their fruit crops. In Missouri the farmers lighted firepots beneath the trees in hopes of heating the temperature and saving the young buds. Steam heated orchards are something new in fruit culture.

"Rain all day and to-morrow also," was what the weatherman said. "The temperature will remain around 45, and if anything may rise a little."

The streets are coated with a slimy mire which makes it difficult for both man and beast to keep their footing.

OLD MAN SHOT FRIEND, ENDED HIS OWN LIFE

Former Salvation Army Officer, Father of Five Children, Instantly Slain by Man He Had Befriended—Slayer Probably Insane.

George W. Sommers, a Dorchester business man, who had formerly been a lieutenant in the Salvation Army, was shot and killed to-day at his home by Edwin Bishop, an old man whom he had found in his mission work and tried to befriend. Bishop, after murdering Sommers, killed himself.

Fear that he had lost his mind, it is believed, drove the aged man to the deed. It is believed that he had prepared to kill himself, and that Sommers came across him just at the fatal moment and suffered death in consequence.

WIFE HEARS HUSBAND'S DYING CRY.

The double tragedy took place at the Sommers home, No. 16 Willowwood street. Mrs. Sommers, a semi-invalid, heard the cry of her husband just before he was shot and ran to his side as he fell dying upon the floor. Frantic with grief, the woman threw herself across her husband's body.

Bishop had money enough to support himself and helped Sommers at odd times to have something to take up his attention." The two men got along amicably together and it is declared that the older man must have been crazed when he killed his friend.

Bishop went down stairs shortly after 6 o'clock to-day and was shortly joined by Sommers. Some conversation passed between the two men when Bishop pulled a revolver from his pocket and holding it in his hand exclaimed:

"Do you see this?" Sommers called out to his wife to hurry to his assistance, fearing apparently that the old man might use the weapon either upon him or upon himself. Hardly had the words left his mouth when Bishop, pressing the muzzle of the weapon close to the head of Sommers, pulled the trigger. The bullet entered his brain, and as he was falling to the floor, a second shot was fired.

Sleeping Children Aroused.

By this time Mrs. Sommers had reached the scene. She cried for help, arousing her children, who were asleep at the house at the time. There are five little girls in the Sommers family, the oldest eleven years old. The older ones climbed out of bed and ran downstairs, where they found their father lying dead in the hallway. Faintly realizing the horror of the situation, the children began to cry and call for their mother.

In the meantime Bishop had calmly walked upstairs to his room. There he took two pillows from his bed, laid one on top of the other on the floor and laid down on his back with his head propped up by the pillow.

He then took the revolver in his right hand and, pressing it against his temple, fired a bullet into his brain, killing himself instantly.

Wife Alarms Neighbors.

When Mrs. Sommers left her house she ran into the residence of R. S. Chaffee of No. 28 Willowwood street. Mr. Chaffee is employed in the stove-repairing establishment which was conducted by Sommers at No. 123 Norfolk street. Chaffee and other neighbors had been roused by the three shots that were fired, hurried to the Sommers house. There a quick examination of the situation revealed that both men were beyond medical aid.

Some of the police had by this time

BOSTON WOMEN SAVED WITH THE PASSENGERS FROM STRANDED LINER

LONDON, April 18.—The sixty-one passengers of the stranded liner Minnehaha, which crashed on the rocks in the dread Scilly Islands, were rescued in darkness and a dense fog early to-day. Captain Sidney Layland, commodore of the fleet of the Atlantic Transport line, and the crew of the wrecked liner remained aboard after the passengers had been landed.

Among the passengers on the ship were Edward W. Beach, Waterbury, Ct.; Miss Sarah Beach, Bridgeport, Ct.; Miss Mary Gregory and Miss Mary H. Ladd, Boston; H. P. Roming, Ontario; Frederick Keppel, New York; C. Walters and Miss Blanche Walters, Toronto.

The sea which raged when the steamer poked her nose aground in a dense fog had moderated, but rain came down steadily. The transfer of the passengers was accomplished with a wonderful show of courage and daring.

"Women and children first" was the order and it was enforced to the letter. With the sea, rising in great rolls of terrific force, breaking at every point over the tips of rocks, the small boats were handled with the greatest skill, threading their way from the crippled liner to Bryer Island.

Nearly Riven by Shock.

When the liner shoved her nose hard on the rocks she was almost riven by the shock, although proceeding with extreme caution. Within a moment the decks were crowded with frightened passengers in all stages of attire, awakened from their sleep by the crash.

Rockets were obliterated by the fog and the strongest light aboard cast but a feeble ray through the mist. No sooner had the liner struck than the wireless began flashing out the S O S—the call for aid. The message was first answered from the Lizard signal station. Within a few minutes the news was at Falmouth and preparations for sending assistance were under way.

By daybreak a score of vessels, including two British warships, were on their way to the Minnehaha's side.

The Minnehaha sailed from New York April 9, among the passengers being Frederick Keppel of New York City. The Minnehaha is a cargo carrier of 13,443 tons, with accommodations for cabin passengers only. She was built in Belfast in 1900.

ALDRICH TO QUIT SENATE

PROVIDENCE, April 18.—General Brayton, Republican leader in Rhode Island, to-day declared that under no circumstances will Senator Nelson W. Aldrich be a candidate for re-election. The Senator's health, according to General Brayton, is too poor.

QUORUM FAILS AT COUNCIL MEETING

Only two members of the City Council responded to Mayor Fitzgerald's call for a special meeting to-day and adjournment was taken without action. The Mayor was particularly anxious to have two orders for $5,000 each from the income of the Parkman fund, appropriated to provide for preliminary plans for the new aquarium at Marine Park and the Zoo at Franklin Park. Chairman Ballantyne was on hand at 12 o'clock. So was Councillor Brand. They waited twenty minutes, but no other members appeared.

MARK TWAIN HAS RELAPSE

REDDING, Ct., April 18.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) had a sudden relapse at his home at Stormfield, near here, early to-day. His physicians were hurriedly summoned, but their first reports were non-committal as to the famous humorist's chances of life.

The change for the better following the arrival from Europe of his daughter, Mrs. Ossip Gabrilovitch, wife of the pianist, yesterday was only temporary.

As the day wore on the patient's condition improved. Mr. Clemens, nursed by his daughter, appeared to rally slightly. The presence of Mrs. Gabrilovitsch seemed to cheer him greatly.

of the province, giving warning that the government could no longer guarantee the safety of foreign lives or property.

Following the departure of the foreigners, including the Japanese, the rioters began plying the torch at Chang-Sha. The British consulate is the only building in the foreign quarter known to have escaped the flames. Whether the new tanks of the Standard Oil Company were destroyed is not known.

The Mission Burned.

The China-Inland, the Norwegian and the Catholic missions were the first burned. Then the rioters set fire to the Wesleyan, the Yale, the American Episcopal Missionary Alliance and United Evangelical church missions.

The missionaries all started for Hankow, but it is not known whether all of them escaped the danger zone.

The gravest consequences are feared, as Hu-Nan province, of which Changsha is the capital, has always been strongly anti-foreign. It was here that the Boxer movement had its greatest strength.

The Governor Dead.

The rioting had its origin in the high price of rice following a scarcity of that article. The rice corner was charged to Wou Tsiung-Siu, the governor of the province. He and his son are dead. One report has it that he committed suicide when he realized the seriousness of the situation. Another is that they were killed by the rioters.

The outbreak of rioting by the populace was seized upon by the anti-foreign leaders as the occasion for a general outbreak, in which the foreigners were bound to suffer. Then came the attack on the missions and the foreign business houses.

The British consul has fled to a steamer which at last reports was anchored in the Yangtse river, about a mile below the city.

More AMERICANS are read in the homes in Boston than any other paper.

$2,000,000 HOTEL WRECK

SALT LAKE, Utah, April 18.—The $2,000,000 Hotel Utah, now in course of construction, was dynamited at 3 a. m. to-day, wrecking a portion of the steel work and breaking thousands of dollars worth of plate glass in the vicinity. The police immediately surrounded the building, but did not make any arrests.

This hotel was dynamited about two months ago, and J. Wilson is now on trial, having confessed complicity in the act. The steel is being put up by the Jones Construction Company of San Francisco and non-union labor is being employed.

SWOPE CASE DEFENCE HURT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 18.—Dr. B. Clarke Hyde was to-day pictured publicly and openly as a skilled and consummate murderer. In an opening address to the jury, which he started early but did not finish until late, Attorney James A. Reed presented the State's case in a calm and decided manner. He did not get very far before an interruption came which delayed the address about two hours. The delay was due to an objection by counsel for the defence, and it resulted in Mr. Reed being appointed a special assistant prosecuting attorney. The oath was administered to the lawyer and the papers signed by Mr. Conkling and Judge Latschaw, and everything was done regularly before the jury was recalled. The court overruled all the objections of the defence and Attorney Frank P. Walsh went down to his first defeat.

HAVE YOU TRIED THIS?

Simple Prescription Said to Work Wonders for Rheumatism.

This has been well known to the best doctors for years and is now given to the public. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla Compound and one ounce Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Good effects are felt the first day. Many of the worst cases here have been cured by this. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

IRISH PARTY WITH ASQUITH ON THE BUDGET

LONDON, April 18.—Before the debate began in the House of Commons to-day it was officially announced that the Irish party had decided to support the budget at all stages. This is a complete triumph for Premier Asquith.

Ireland's plans for her fight for home rule was decided on to-day at a meeting of the Irish party in the Commons, presided over by John Redmond. The session was declared by those concerned to be the most important held since the political crisis that has agitated Great Britain for several months came to a head.

The attitude of the Irish vote in the Commons toward the budget and the government's fight to curb the veto power of the House of Lords were the principal topics.

After the meeting it was stated that Redmond would make an important declaration in the Commons this afternoon. The galleries were filled early by an expectant throng as a result, a hot conflict between William O'Brien and Redmond being predicted.

REDMOND, DEVLIN AND O'CONNOR ARE DELEGATES TO U. S.

The news is cabled from London that John E. Redmond, M. P., T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and Joseph Devlin, M. P., have been delegated by the Irish Parliamentary party and the United Irish League to come to the United States next Fall for the biennial national convention of the United Irish League of America.

The convention will be held either in the last week of September or the first week in October. While several cities, especially in the West and Middle West, have been urged upon the National committee, no selection of a city has yet been made.

As another general election in Great Britain before the Summer is over seems inevitable, the convention which Mr. Redmond, Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Devlin are instructed to attend, promises to be the most important gathering of its kind held in this country for years.

500 STILL OUT ON NEW HAVEN

No agreement had been reached to-day between the officials of the New Haven road and the 500 section hands and laborers who were on strike on the Boston division for a twenty-five cent increase and a nine-hour day. No serious tie-up is anticipated by the officials, as a result of the strike, according to John Savage, roadmaster of the Boston division. He said that there was a large number of strikers, the majority of whom are Italians, in camp at South Framingham. Along the division for a radius of ten miles out of Boston to-day some of the strikers put in an appearance and tried to get other workmen to quit work.

LISTS OF VOTERS IS RECORD-BREAKER

The early listing of voters this year has evidently caught the "tax-dodgers" napping. The lists this year at any rate are record breakers in numbers. The tabulated results of the police listing will be ready to-morrow night, when one copy will be sent to the Election Commissioners and a second copy will go to the listing board at police headquarters. The date of listing was made April 1 this year instead of May 1.

DEATH PENALTY PAID.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 18.—Earl B. Hill, nineteen years old, slayer of Eldridge Davis, an aged Chenango County farmer, died in the electric chair in the State prison here to-day. He collapsed as he was about to be strapped in.

TECH JUNIOR WEEK BREAKING RECORDS

The Tech show for 1910, "The Queen of the Cannibal Isles," which has been adjudged as the best since 1905, gave its second Boston matinee at the Shubert to-day, and will give its farewell performance at the Malden Auditorium Wednesday evening. To-night at Copley Hall the annual concert and dance of the combined glee, mandolin and banjo clubs is to be held. A musical program of eight numbers will be followed by a dance until 12 o'clock. The crowning event of junior week will be the junior prom at the Somerset to-morrow evening.

Boynton; master of the wardrobe, Charles V. Russell; grand captain of the body guard, Thomas B. Pollard; sentinel of the tower, Jeremiah A. Twomey; sentinel of the desert, William L. Drohan.

ALDERMEN MEET AT BREAKFAST TIME

The Somerville Aldermen met at the unusual hour of 8 o'clock this morning because they had to draw jurors for several small cases which it is desired to try at once in the Superior Court at East Cambridge.

WHY MILLIONAIRE GREEN NEVER WED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 18.—E. H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, forty years of age, says the only reason he never has married is that he has found it impossible to win a maid for himself alone and not his millions.

SKATING CLUB IS BUSY.

Members of the Boston 1915 Skating Club have begun training for the New England speed skating championships which will be contested at the Boston arena the last of this month. They have had several sessions at the St. Botolph street rink and predict some very fast times on the eight-lap track.

LONG-TERM PASTOR DEAD.

QUINCY, April 18.—Rev. William R. Heath, seventy-seven years old, noted as New England's "long-term" pastor, in the Methodist Church, died to-day at his home on Hobart street, Braintree, after a short illness. He served thirteen years at the Methodist Church in West Bridgewater, and had fifty-five years of service.

MILK FAMINE LATEST PERIL TO THE CITY

Unless an agreement is reached within a few days between the milk contractors and the members of the Boston Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, Boston and its environs will face the most serious milk war in New England's history.

Those in close touch with the situation say it is very grave, and that unless an amicable agreement is reached within the next fortnight the city will suffer even a worse milk famine than existed in 1901.

Members of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' Association say they control fully 30,000 cans of milk daily, in the supply of this city. Each can contains eight and a half quarts. About 10,000 cans come from Central Massachusetts and the remainder from Western Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire. From October 1 to May 1 the producers receive 44½ cents a can, less from 7 to 11 cents a can reduction for freight. The Summer schedule, in force from May 1 to October 1, nets the producers about 28½ cents a can. The trouble which now threatens is due to a notice from the contractors, that the regular Summer schedule will go into effect May 1.

Winter Prices in Summer.

The producers are thoroughly organized and have officially notified the contractors that the Winter schedule of prices must be sustained after May 1 and probably throughout the Summer months. Members of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' Association have received a circular letter, asking that they ship no milk after May 1, except at the Winter prices. Officials of the association say hundreds of the producers have agreed to this course.

Producers attempt to justify their action on the ground that prices of grain and hay are abnormally high, with no relief in prospect. The last two Summers have been unusually dry, so that pastures failed and crops suffered. The producers say they made no profit last Summer, and would face a loss in the production of milk this year if similar conditions obtained.

Farmers in Control.

Walter A. Hunter, secretary of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' Association, seen at his home in Worcester, admitted that the situation was very grave. He said:

"The farmers who ship milk to Boston have at last got control of the situation, and they mean business. The contractors will take this milk at the present Winter prices, or go without it. The farmers in this fight control from 25,000 to 30,000 cans daily.

"If the farmers do not stand up now they never will. The directors have taken the initiative and will carry the matter to a successful issue if they have the support of the farmers. There is no question as to the result of united action on our part. The contractors cannot get along without the thousands of cans of milk we furnish, for the producing territory is already covered in furnishing the supply.

"It is purely a business proposition with us. We can make little profit at the present Winter schedule and certainly cannot consider a return to the Summer prices."

FUNERAL SERVICES OF ROBERT A. CALLAHAN

The funeral of Robert A. Callahan was held from No. 752 East Fourth street, South Boston, to-day with a high mass of requiem at the new Gate of Heaven Church at 9 o'clock. The edifice was crowded. Rev. Charles Ulick was celebrant, assisted by Rev. M. C. Gilbride of St. Augustine Church. The casket, which rested near the sanctuary, was buried beneath a mass of flowers. The church choir was led by Mrs. Julia Herrick, soprano; Miss Alice Emmett, contralto; Thomas Clifford, bass. Mrs. Joseph E. Kelsey was organist. At the close of the service Mr. Clifford sang "Deus Pacis" and Joseph L. Collins sang the "Benedictus." The bearers were William Fitzgerald, Charles Dyer, John Hickey, Charles J. Collins, Eugene Brady and P. M. Quinn. The burial was in the Holy Cross Cemetery.

GOOD COOKING MEANS LOWER LIVING COSTS

Father James B. Troy, at the second of the St. Augustine's Church conferences in South Boston, urged the workingmen to insist on good cooking at home, and to abstain from liquor, as the real way to better their condition and counteract the increasing cost of living. "It is, first of all, necessary," he insisted, "to teach the women to cook. Not only does good, wholesome cooking mean economy in food, but it means that the man of the house will feel more like coming home to an appetizing meal than he will to go to the saloon."

STRIKER SHOT IN STEEL WORKS RIOT

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 18.—In a strike riot at Schoenville—the Pressed Steel Car Works—to-day, one man was shot and severely wounded by a policeman. Nearly 3,000 men are now on strike, and recruits are rapidly being added to the number.

MRS. SHAW CANCELS SERIOUS CHARGES IN HER DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Nettie E. Shaw, wife of ex-Senator Shaw.

The opening of the divorce fight between former Senator James F. Shaw and his attractive wife, who was Miss Nettie E. Eldredge, in the Salem court to-day was marked by a sensation. Through her counsel, Mrs. Shaw withdrew the most serious of her allegations against her husband in her cross libel.

It was learned on the best authority that this action of Mrs. Shaw was a prelude to the settlement of the marital differences without the publicity that would attend a divorce trial. It is declared that when the case is resumed on Wednesday at 10 o'clock, to which time it was adjourned, a divorce will be granted to Shaw without a contest.

Big Crowd Turns Out.

The suit was brought by former Senator Shaw, who named H. Keno Marble and Gilbert Lea in his charges. Marble was formerly a chauffeur in the Shaw family. Lea is a Holyoke photographer.

Mrs. Shaw brought a cross libel, in which she names a number of women, some of whom were said to be of social prominence. It was this part of her charges that she withdrew to-day, leaving only those of "cruel and abusive treatment" in her bill.

It rained in Salem to-day at the time court opened, but this did not keep a great crowd from gathering at the court house. Mrs. Shaw reached the court house in company with her father, H. Fisher Eldredge, the rich Portsmouth brewer, in an automobile. A friend met them and helped them with umbrellas into the court room.

The father and daughter took seats to the left of the Judge's bench. Mrs. Shaw looked too young to be the mother of a twelve-year-old boy. She was dressed in a dark blue costume of semi-military cut. Her white straw turban hat was freshened up with a spray of pink rose buds, and there was a garland of the same floral beauty at her corsage.

Judge George Marcus Morton had just ascended to the bench when Former Senator Shaw, looking spick and span in a new business suit, walked into the court room as though he felt at home there. He nodded to the Judge and spoke familiarly with High Sheriff Sam Johnson. He took a seat directly in front of the sheriff.

Shaw may have caught sight of his wife out of the corner of his eye because he was not noticed looking once in that direction. He gave one swift glance in the direction of another individual in the court room and it was accompanied by a flash of scorn—the person was H. Keno Marble with whom Shaw's wife ran away. Marble sat among others in the court room and not with either of the parties of the two contestants.

Wife Signs Document.

When the Shaw case was reached Lawyer Elbridge R. Anderson arose with some legal papers in his hand and approached Mrs. Shaw. He is her counsel. Mrs. Shaw took a dainty gold pencil from a pocketbook and signed her name where the attorney indicated. Then addressing the court Anderson said:

"Mrs. Shaw desires time to amend her libel. We ask for a postponement."

Guy W. Cox, attorney for Shaw, turned and smiled at his client. Shaw smiled in return. That the court proceedings had been adjusted satisfactorily to both parties was apparent. Judge Morton then announced that the case would come up again on Wednesday morning.

The twelve-year-old son of the Shaws, who has figured in some sensational kidnappings since the breach between husband and wife, was not in court. He is attending St. Andrew's School at Concord.

9 THROWN IN WATER AS BIG CANOE UPSETS

Nine men in a war canoe had a lively but chilly experience in the Charles River near Lily Point, Newton, when their craft was capsized by the waves from a motor boat which was following them. The men could all swim, and while some elected to strike out for the banks, others treaded water until picked up by the six men in the motor boat and the rest righted the canoe and steered it toward shallow water.

'THE THINKING MACHINE' HELD AS A SPEEDER

"The Thinking Machine" has been pinched for auto speeding.

It happened in Hingham, where battle, murder and sudden death count as naught against breaking the speed law.

"The Thinking Machine," otherwise Jacques Futrelle, the analyst of crime, was returning by auto to his home in Darkest Scituate, accompanied by Mrs. Futrelle and their young son. In an auto just ahead of them were E. R. Chapman of Roxbury and friends. The Futrelles and the Chapmans had been out for a Sunday spin.

The Details of Crime.

On Hingham square there is a police station. On the station steps there was a Hingham cop. In the cop's hand there was one stop-watch. Measured off on the Hingham highway was one perfectly good auto trap one-eighth of a mile long.

At the farther end of the trap the Futrelle auto was held up by a stout individual who made a lightning calculation and then told the disgusted Futrelle that he was driving eighteen miles an hour and would please report at court next Friday morning.

As an expert analyst of crime, "The Thinking Machine" probed the situation by induction and deduction, and failed to see where any horrible outrage against society, public health or even good form had been committed.

As Analyzed by Crime.

"Why, the State laws allow fifteen miles anywhere," quoth Futrelle to-day in speaking of it. "I am a very careful driver. I have warned my own friends against overspeeding time and again. I'll bet that Chapman was going faster than I was at that. And they didn't hold him up. They don't care about murder or arson in Hingham, but eighteen miles an hour is real crime."

Jacques Futrelle is built on wholesale lines. He weighs a large fraction of a ton. The amazing part of the episode is the assertion that any automobile could whirl him over the surface of this long-suffering earth at eighteen miles per. Jacques might set up an avoirdupois defence.

ROMANTIC HONEYMOON ON YACHT FOR MARJORIE GOULD AND HER FIANCE

By ALINE.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Can you imagine anything more romantic than spending one's honeymoon on a yacht? That is what I hear Marjorie Gould and Tony Drexel are going to do, for her father, George J. Gould, has had his Atalanta put in commission, and it will take them for a cruise in the West Indies. For days and days Captain Donald Tod, the Gould's Scottish skipper, has been having the boat fixed up ship-shape for the "lune de miel" voyage, and has had it stocked with every luxury that could be procured for the trip.

The wedding of the two young heirs to $20,000,000 takes place at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, and will be quite the smartest we have had for a month of Sundays. The floral decorations are to be wonderful, and the music certainly will be, for there is to be a program of vocal music by the choir, with organ and violin, before the ceremony, while the guests are assembling.

Pretty Girl Attendants.

Marjorie has chosen some of the prettiest girls I know to attend her. Her sister, Vivien, will be her maid of honor, and her bridesmaids will be Hope Hamilton, her cousin; Beatrice Claflin, Marjorie Curtis, Elsie Nicoll and Dorothy Randolph, of Philadelphia.

Then, in accordance with the English custom, there will be two small bridesmaids, or flower girls, if you like, the bride's small sister, Edith, and Mrs. Clarie Mackay's daughter, Ellin. Tony will have his brother, Armstrong Drexel, for his best man, and the ushers will be Kingdon and Jay Gould, Marjorie's brothers; Tony's cousin, Willie Stewart; Julius W. Noyes, of this city, Norwell Griffith of England, John Fell and Craig Biddle of Philadelphia, all of whom he entertained at dinner Saturday night at Delmonico's.

Marjorie Gould has had the most wonderful wedding presents, which we are to see at the reception following the ceremony to-morrow at the Gould residence, No. 857 Fifth avenue. They include superb jewels, silver, laces, and dear knows what not, almost enough things to fill the house her father has given her on Fifth avenue.

Besides the house, the pretty bride-elect's father has presented her with one of the most beautiful diamond necklaces that has ever come out of Tiffany's.

The Princess de Sagan (Anna Gould) has sent over a wonderful ring set with a huge black pearl of historic value and wonderful lustre. Frank Gould's gift is a beautiful bracelet of diamonds, while the Anthony J. Drexels have presented the bride-elect with the most wonderful chests of silver that include everything the most fastidious chatelaine would wish for. These are all engraved in a beautiful monogram specially designed in a circle.

An Exquisite Wedding.

And for the wedding itself. It is going to be the most exquisite thing imaginable. Think of those beautiful young bridesmaids—really among the lovliest in society—appearing in pale blue satin charmeuse frocks made three inches off the floor and veiled in pink chiffon. The gowns will have the chiffon overskirts, held in bouffant fashion, about six inches from the hem, with a sash of blue ribbon tied in the back. Beneath this is a pleated ruffle of chiffon. A high blue satin girdle finishes the waist, which is made with a Dutch neck, cut a bit low and square, of course.

The hats are dreams. Big blue toques of straw, very high wide crowns, with a roll of pink tulle about the crown. At the back a pink feather turns up jauntily upon the hat in a very perky French fashion.

CAR STRIKE LOSS IS PUT AT $12,200,000

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Four thousand carmen, who have been on strike for two months will return to work Wednesday under the terms of an order issued to-day by officials of the union. Revised estimates made to-day of the aggregate cost of the strike place it at $12,200,000. The burden fell on the business community which is estimated to have suffered in the loss of trade and in other ways to the extent of $8,000,000. The cost to the strikers, including those who went out on sympathetic strike, was $3,000,000, while the direct loss to the rapid transit company is figured at not less than $1,200,000.

SALVATION ARMY MAN SLAIN BY OLD FRIEND WHOM HE HAD AIDED

reached the house and hoping that something might yet be done to save the lives of the two men Dr. George Winchester was summoned. When the doctor had made the brief examination he announced that life was extinct in both bodies.

But little is known of Bishop. When he made his home in Boston he lived in Cherry street. He was said to be a widower. Of late those who observed him said that he had a twichting of the limbs that indicated that he might be suffering from some malady akin to St. Vitus dance.

How Shot Was Fired.

The Sommers family had lived in Dorchester about five years, coming to this city from Springfield. The children consist of Dorothy, aged eleven; Caroline, Harriet, Gertrude and Elizabeth. The last named is the baby.

Mrs. Sommers, the widow of the murdered man, made this statement:

"I was in bed, lying awake shortly after 6 o'clock, when my husband got up to go to the bathroom. I heard him knock at the door of the bathroom and heard Mr. Bishop, who was on the inside say, 'In a minute.' My husband waited at the door for a minute. Bishop opened the door and said, 'Do you see that?'

"At that my husband called to me. I started to him, when suddenly I heard two shots ring out. I heard some one fall. When I reached the hall, which was only ten feet distant, Bishop was walking through the kitchen to go upstairs.

"My husband was breathing, but was not able to talk. We rushed for a doctor, but my husband died before he arrived.

Heavy Blow to Widow.

"It's a pretty hard fate to come to my poor, dear George, to have the religious work he carried on for so many years become the indirect cause of his death," said the grief-stricken widow. "Why, for years George has interested himself in mission work and in reforming, as far as he could, persons who were on the road to destruction.

"Bishop was an acquaintance he first saw on one of his mission trips," continued the widow, tears streaming down her face. "George was a good man, religious and industrious, who always took good care of us. But he was on the lookout to care for others, too, and when he saw Bishop first, about a year ago, he was solicitious about the old man.

"George asked him if he could do anything for him. The old man replied that he had enough money and did not need any job, but he would like to do some work that would keep his mind employed. He seemed to fear that his brain would run away with him. So George gave him a job and told him to come here to live near us."

Mrs. Nettie Waite, mother-in-law of Sommers, who lived in the same house, said:

"I know that Bishop must have been crazy when he murdered my son-in-law. Bishop told me last Summer that sometimes he was not responsible for his actions. He said he had been injured about the head and that he suffered periods of insanity. My son-in-law and Bishop were always friendly. He has roomed and boarded here off and on since last Summer. He went away in the Fall and we thought harm had come to him. He stayed away three months and then, five weeks ago, returned.

Mrs. Edith Olson of No. 28 Willowwood street, and a sister of Mrs. Sommers, said:

"Bishop must have been insane. He was a peculiar man sometimes. He would stay in his room for days and not eat anything. He often got up at 4 o'clock in the morning and would walk way in to the Boston Common, where he would sit on a bench for two or three hours.

Member of Salvation Army.

Sommers, it was said, met Bishop about a year ago at the St. Stephen's Mission. Bishop said he had an income and did not have to work, but that he would be glad to do some odd jobs to occupy his mind.

Sommers had been in the Salvation Army in Springfield and ranked as a lieutenant and he took a deep interest in the work in Boston.

Mrs. Anna K. Deibl of No. 29 Cherry street, South End, Boston, who knew Edwin Bishop well, gave an interview to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter as follows:

"Mr. Bishop has a peculiar disposition. He was very distant and had little to say to anyone. He had a roving disposition. He never stayed long in one place. I am surprised at his act of to-day, however, because he was a man who didn't drink and there seems no good cause for the horrible deed. I don't know whether or not he had relatives in this country. He came about twenty-five years ago from England."

A neighboring woman of the Sommers family who met Bishop on the street a few days ago, walked a few blocks with him and they conversed upon some repair work that he had done for her. She asked him how he was getting along, and he replied:

"There is no sunshine in this world for me. It is all rain. I am tired of life."

WOLTER DEATH TRIAL BEGUN

NEW YORK, April 18.—Women are the chief witnesses against Albert W. Wolter, whose trial for the murder of fifteen-year-old Ruth Wheeler began to-day before Judge Foster. Nearly twenty of them, including Kate Mueller, Wolter's sweetheart, will be called by the prosecution to give evidence against the youth. Among the women witnesses in court when the trial began to-day were Pearl Wheeler, Ruth's sister, who brought about the arrest of Wolter; Adelaide Wheeler, another sister, and the mother of Wolter. Judge Foster received this letter to-day:

"I killed Ruth Wheeler at 10:30 o'clock. Wolter said to me he had to go out and I waited until he came back. He was expecting some one, so that the girl came and I killed her and left her in the kitchen. Wolter must find the girl in the kitchen died (sic). I did not know the girl."

The letter was unsigned and misspelled. It was written in ink on small sized note paper.

LABOR MEN FAVOR HOMESTEAD BILL

Resolutions declaring that as the State of Massachusetts has given millions for the construction of railroads, for educational purposes, for the care of the poor, the insane and the crippled, its duty now is to lend its credit to the city dwellers who would go back to the farms, were adopted by the Boston Central Labor Union, which will petition the General Court for the enactment of the homestead commission bill now before it.

OLDEST HEBREW IN QUINCY DEAD

QUINCY, April 18.—Solomon Asnes, seventy-five years old, the oldest Hebrew resident here, died to-day. He taught among his own people and was a great giver to Hebrew charities. His home was at No. 341 Water street.

Personal Items.

REV. LORD RUPERT WILLIAM ERNEST CECIL, second son of the late Marquis of Salisbury, the former Premier of Great Britain, is in New York for a brief visit. He is one of the highest members of the English nobility who has taken holy orders in the Church of England.

THE REV. HENRY NITCHIE COBB, since 1882 corresponding secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America, is dead at his home, No. 50 Glenwood avenue, East Orange, N. J., at the age of seventy-five.

WILLIAM COLLENDER, a poet, formerly well-known and well-to-do, is dead at the Catholic home in Brooklyn, a pauper. He was seventy-five years old and the last years of his life were made miserable by poverty.

"LA TITCOMB, the Parisian singer on horseback," known in private life as Miss Heloise McCreery, of Washington, announces her engagement to Nat Wills, the actor. They will wed in June.

HOWARD TAFT, son of the President's brother, Henry W., is disappointed because Secretary of War Dickinson has postponed his trip to Panama, on which young Taft was to be his guest.

PRESIDENT TAFT will shortly select a successor to Brigadier-General William L. Marshall, chief of engineers of the army, who will be retired for age on June 11.

AUGUST BELMONT and his wife, who was Miss Eleanor Robson, have taken a cottage at Falmouth and will spend the late Spring and Summer on the Cape.

ANIMALS ONLY!

From the Bulky Elephant Down to the Pesky Flea.

HE LOVED HIS CHICKENS.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Carrying two live chickens under his arms, John Jenkins, a negro, at Bloomfield, N. J., was struck by an automobile driven by Edward E. Murdoch. Jenkins was thrown high and came down with a thud in the muddy road. When he regained consciousness he demanded: "Where are my chickens?" When they were rescued he said: "I'd have felt mighty bad, boss, if I'd lost them birds for I certainly do love my chicken."

BATTLE OF BULL AND BULLDOG.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 18.—One of the most singular and desperate battles ever fought in this vicinity was that at the Hawkins ranch, five miles north of this city, between a bull and a bulldog. After an hour's struggle the bulldog tore open the bull's neck, the bull fell from weakness caused by loss of blood and the dog throttled it.

ELEPHANTS HAVE A BATH.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Barnum & Bailey elephants at Madison Square Garden had a bath Sunday. First of all they were lathered thoroughly with soap, then the hose was turned on them. They were then rubbed dry and rubbed with neatsfoot oil, which keeps their heavy hides soft and pliable and adds much to their comfort.

HOG IS A WITNESS IN COURT.

WAVERLY, O., April 18.—A hog in court was the unusual spectacle witnessed by attendants upon the trial of Julius O. and Ernest F. Vester, whom a jury convicted upon a charge of larceny. The brothers, prominent farmers, were charged with stealing and selling a number of young shoats.

MONKEYS GIVE A MATINEE.

NEW YORK, April 18.—It was monkey day at the Bronx Zoo yesterday. Nine species, numbering thirty-seven animals, were selected according to their congeniality and their ability to be clever, assembled in one cage, and they kept the spectators roaring with glee by their antics.

FLEAS PESTER THE WEST.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—Fleas are a greater pest this Spring than ever before in the memory of the oldest citizen. Rich as well as the poor are afflicted. Street cars are literally alive with them.

POISON CANDY KILLS 50 DOGS.

MOUNT VICTORY, O., April 18.—As a result of poisined candy being scattered in the streets several times in two weeks fifty dogs have been killed and at least a dozen children made ill.

WHAT AN UNGRATEFUL HORSE.

TRENTON, N. J., April 18.—A horse, which Assistant Fire Chief Bennett rescued from a blazing building, kicked him so severely that he may not recover.

ASSAILANT OF WOMAN CAUGHT

IPSWICH, April 18.—A strange man brutally attacked Mrs. Olive Smith, fifty-five years old, widow of Postmaster George W. Smith, while she was walking home last evening in the deserted section between the old Heard mansion and the Parlee house. Mrs. Smith was choked and cruelly beaten. The man was placed under arrest after a struggle.

Harry Garette and J. Parker Hill heard Mrs. Smith scream. They rushed to her aid and followed the man through the field and overpowered him. He refuses to talk.

CALLS BOSTON WORST PLACE TO LIVE IN

"Boston is the worst place on earth to live in," declared Rev. Cortland Myers at the Tremont Temple, quoting, he said, from the report of the 1915 committee. "It is too bad that our fellow-men, made in the image of God, do not have better homes to live in. They live, most of them, in little collar boxes of houses which they call 'home.' We ought to have better homes.

"Boston, according to the report of the 1915 committee, has worse living conditions than any other city in the United States. Think of it! It's worse than any place on earth, I believe. The worst place to live isn't China, or Japan, or Africa, or even God-forsaken Chicago, but right here in Boston."

HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO KILL FOREMAN

Donabod Kazarian, twenty-eight, who attempted to kill John W. Bradley, foreman in the Hood Rubber factory at Watertown, on Saturday, was held in $4,000 in Waltham Court to-day. "I was drunk," said Kazarian. "I plead guilty." Bradley was on his way to the Hood Rubber Company plant Saturday afternoon. Kazarian accosted him. The Armenian held a rifle which he pulled up to his shoulder and cried: "Throw up your hands. I am going to kill you." Bradley jumped behind a tree. The Armenian fired, the bullet being imbedded in the tree.

GIRL STUDENTS ON COURT TOUR

Twenty-five pretty Wellesley post-graduate students enlivened the daily routine to-day in the Charlestown district court. They listened open-mouthed to the cases in the dock which ranged from drunkenness to "crap-shooting."

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Merrill of Lowell chaperoned the party. The girls are studying criminal affairs, tenement house conditions, and sociological conditions.

After court the party went to Station 15 where Police Sergeant Killian showed them the dormitories, the cell rooms, and the stable. The girls will visit the East Cambridge Jail, the House of Correction, and the State Prison, after which they will write twenty-five papers—one each—for the benefit of mankind in general.

SMOKES CIGAR FOR 85 MINUTES ON BET

ITHACA, April 18.—In a contest to determine who could smoke a cigar longest without allowing it to burn out, twenty-five members of the Town and Gown Club awarded a prize to Professor T. Monroe, who kept up puffing, by the aid of a toothpick, for eighty-five minutes. Among the contestants were a number of Cornell professors, but at the end of fifty minutes most of them had retired. Judge Frank Divine of the law school stood for seventy minutes. Professor C. L. Durham quit at eighty minutes, and Dr. Andrews of this city lasted eighty-two minutes.

STORE LOOTED OF MUTTS AND JEFFS

Mutt and Jeff have been stolen! Not content with stealing them once, some theif stole them twelve times. William H. Hippler, a wood-carver, in his small shop at No. 47 Bristol street, South End, made twelve copies of Bud Fisher's creation. To-day he found that a thief had broken the front window of his shop and stolen the carvings. Nothing else was missing.

CITY TO RIVAL NEW YORK IS MAYOR'S IDEA

Imbued with the one idea of putting Boston in its proper place, second only to New York, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and the members of the Boston Real Estate Exchange arrived at the South station early to-day tired but happy at the end of their six-hour ride in the train from the big Metropolis, where they have been visiting for the past few days.

As the entire party, 250 strong, piled off the special train that brought them back to Boston, sounding the virtues of New York and wide awake to the needs of Boston, the second commercial port in the United States, the Mayor stood out in the centre of the midway in the South station and hurrahed for the Bean town until the attendants of the terminal were obliged to ask the "little general" and his consorts to adjourn to the sidewalk as they wanted to lock up the station.

Boston Right in Line.

With a smile his honor complied with their request and stopped at the door of his automobile and continued his talk which struck a sympathetic chord in the hearts of the real estate men present who shouted their approval of the Mayor's remarks to make Boston a free port.

"Within the next few years," said the Mayor, "New York will have spent a billion dollars in improvements. Think of it. A billion dollars in improvements to make New York the greatest city in the world and continue in that position!

"And the fact that so many of our leading business men had a chance to see some of this under the most pleasing conditions has made every one of us stronger than ever for Boston and awake to the future possibilities of this city, which has so many more natural advantages to work with.

Boston Has Advantages.

"Already New York has spent $600,000,000 on bridges, subways, terminals of all sorts and other improvements, and within a comparatively short time $400,000,000 more will be spent.

"Over at the Bush Terminals in Brooklyn, which is on Long Island, and accessible from Manhattan only by barges or other water craft, there is wonderful shipping development; while at Jamaica Bay, in the borough of Queens, still farther away, are being built extensive steamship terminals and docks.

"In Boston we have all these advantages within reach of our railroads, and this fact alone speaks volumes in favor of a free port of entry here. Why, within a very short distance of this South station there are acres and acres of land in South Boston which should be covered with factory buildings and other signs of progress.

"This trip has been the means of showing Boston men just what should be done, and I believe money will not stand in the way of Boston's future growth and development.

"This trip should be an example to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and I believe that as many members of this organization as possible should get together for such a journey of knowledge.

Comet Tale WAGS

HAS ANY BODY HERE SEEN THE COMET'S TAIL!

ON THE SKY TRAMP.

Twinkle, twinkle, little comet;
How I wonder what is on it,
In the place of tail so bright,
Which they say is out of sight.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN.

LOST—One tail, by Halley's Tramp Comet. Somewhere between the sun and earth. Finder is hereby notified that no storage charges will be paid on same.

HAVE YOU SEEN IT? WHAT?

First Bug—Have you seen it?
Second Bug—What it?
First Bug—COM-IT.

'FRAID IT MIGHT BE SALTED.

From small boydom comes this solution of the lost tail:

Mr. Comet was a'fraid some one would put salt on his tail and catch him in Boston. So he put it in cold storage during his visit.

of the lost tail:

HIST! DEED OF THE LIGHT TRUST.

The light trust, fearing gas and electric bills might be reduced during the visit of Halley's Comet, is said by persons on the inside to be responsible for the suppression of the tail. Some experts declare the tail would have illuminated Boston so brilliantly that a newspaper could have been read at midnight—had the type been large enough.

PERHAPS HE WAGGED IT OFF.

The dog fanciers say that appendages such as the comet is lacking are made only to be wagged. If the Sky Tramp is of an excessively good temper, they declare, he may have wagged his tail so hard and so frequently that it became loose and fell off.

OR WAS IT FROZEN OFF.

The weather bureau has commented on the excessive cold of the last Winter—elsewhere than Boston. The comet's tail is known to have been of the delicate hot-house variety. Experts on weather and horticulture join in declaring the appendage may have been frozen off.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Expectation of the leaders is that an upward movement of considerable importance can be brought about, thereby furnishing opportunities for liquidating stocks before the general public realizes that it is a liquidating advance.

The absence of specific news influencing the market is momentous because it means that the whole financial world realizes the situation, everybody being afraid to make a move lest it be a false one. Because of this feeling, the leaders in State street are gladly directing the public attention to incidental issues just now, and the incidentals point to higher prices.

$ $ $.

As one banker puts it, "If I were an investor I would sell stocks, but if I were a speculator I would buy them." The market presents splendid opportunities for trading on the long side, but persons who have held securities for a long term of years should consider very seriously in the next three months if they are prepared to carry these stocks for another long period.

The State Street view is that when all the elements making for higher prices are honestly considered, the tariff, the increase of gold, the inflation of currency and the growth of population will be found to have had more to do with increasing prices in the United States than the existence of the trusts.

The agitation against trusts is kept up by the politicians simply to distract attention from the tariff until such time as the commission appointed by Congress shall have figures on which to base a rational reduction of schedules. Until the tariff is reformed no permanent relief from high prices can be expected. The price reductions reported last week in grain, pork and cotton are only temporary, and can be compared with the ordinary reactions that State Street frequently sees in an advancing market.

Since no permanent decrease can be expected in the prices of commodities, American securities are in such a vulnerable condition that they must be supported persistently in the markets until such time as a readjustment of the tariff puts a safe foundation under them. All American railroad bonds are issued on a basis of a cost at least twenty per cent. higher than in other countries, as bonds have been issued to pay for steel rails at $28 that are purchased in other countries for from $20 to $23 a ton. These securities can be maintained at current prices only by making a great show of earnings.

There is nothing spectacular in the action of Pennsylvania, but it behaves well. Investors flock to it and many speculators have taken position on the long side. Its rise undoubtedly will be a comparatively slow one, but it will be sure.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit is becoming a favorite with the speculative element, while investors are thinking well of it also. The company is exceedingly prosperous now, but the traffic at the present time is nothing to what it will be in a month or so. The ocean resorts will be open then and the line will be taxed to its utmost capacity. An advance in the dividend rate seems assured.

The pronounced rise in Smelting has convinced the street that nothing is wrong with the stocks. For a long time it had been in the dumps and the bears sold it whenever they felt so inclined, but the feeling now is that it may go to par, provided the market generally continues strong. Promise of improvement in the silver and copper metal situation is a great help to the security.

Western mills have inquiries for 50,000 tons of rails, but none has been placed. The mills are also bidding on 150,000 tons of steel for car building companies, most of which will go East. Structural mills report a material increase in orders.

A request for a letter giving the privilege of going into the Indiana mine was readily granted by President Dow last week. As the property has only been punctured by drill holes the joke was on the party asking for the letter, and Mr. Dow did not want to spoil the fun that Superintendent Edwards will have when the letter is presented to him.

SUGARS LEAD DECLINE HERE

STATE STREET, April 18.—American Sugar stock was the weak feature of the Wall street list this forenoon, with a 1½ point break, although on a limited amount of trading. This was due to a report that this company is to be attacked under the Sherman law by criminal prosecutions against officials in every possible way. It had little effect in other directions.

Gould stocks showed a firmer tone on favorable traffic arrangements with the Hill roads. Missouri Pacific rose a point and Texas Pacific ¾. There is said to be very little Missouri Pacific stock held by brokerage houses.

Opening prices in New York were generally firm, although London sent an irregular price list. Prices advanced slightly after initial quotations and then ran off a point or so for leading stocks. The traders forced stocks down upon the slack demand.

In the local copper share list there was little to attract attention. Lake Copper rose 1¾ to 62. Granby's point gain at the opening was lost. Arizona Central lost a point, as did North Butte. Wolverine rose 2 points. Shoe Machinery was notably strong.

The traction issues picked up strength in Wall Street during the second hour, and Brooklyn Rapid Transit rose a point. Reading, Union and Southern Pacific lost their early buoyancy, as did Steel common. Amalgamated and Smelters both followed the general trend of prices, although a further decrease in the foreign supply of copper had a favorable effect on sentiment.

There was little doing on the Curb Exchange, although prices held firm as a rule.

ROOSEVELT'S VISIT STIRS BUDA-PEST

BUDA-PEST, April 18.—Theodore Roosevelt, at the moment the most popular man in Hungary, set out to-day to compose five days of sight-seeing and entertainment in one. The program mapped out by Baron Hengelmuller, the Austrian Ambassador at Washington, here on leave of absence and acting as guide to the former President, and Count von Aehrenthal, the foreign minister, kept Mr. Roosevelt busier to-day than at any other time since he reached Europe.

He started out the day by rising early in order to have time to write a long letter to Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel, who last night arrived in Paris, where they will remain the guess of Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon. Then the actual round of the day in with vim.

From his hotel which was surrounded by crowds, Mr. Roosevelt went to pay an official call on the Premier, Count Khuen von Hedervary and on Archduke Joseph.

At the Parliament building Mr. Roosevelt was presented by Count Aponyi of the Parliamentary party with an illuminated address reading: "We greet the distinguished son of the mighty United States of America, apostle of peace, noble peacemaker, with heartfelt welcome; we greet him with enthusiasm and love as our friend. Our gratitude increases when we recall the cordiality with which he received the Hungarians in St. Louis in 1904."

Greeted by Younger Kossuth.

Because of the lack of leisure these calls could be little more than perfunctory, but Mr. Roosevelt demonstrated his knack of injecting a personal touch in whatever he does. The same spirit marked his call on Francis Kossuth, leader of the Opposition. Kossuth has been in ill-health for some time, but he rose from his bed to greet the ex-President of the country where his patriot father found refuge.

One of the day's biggest moments was that when Mr. Roosevelt visited the Diet buildings where a reception in his honor had been planned by Count Apponyi, who entertained Mr. Roosevelt at his country estate on the way from Vienna.

Stag Luncheon Excites Comment.

But the event of the day which attracted the most attention was the luncheon given by Archduke Joseph at the royal palace. The announcement beforehand that it would be "for gentlemen only" attracted public interest and led to much speculation.

Following the first day of hysteria, the second of Mr. Roosevelt's stay in Buda-pest found no perceptible diminution in the public frenzy over his presence. This is largely due to the great wave of emigration which has carried thousands upon thousands of Hungarians to America in the last few years. Mr. Roosevelt is regarded by those remaining as "the great father" of their brethren in the United States.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GUEST OF BACON AT PARIS EMBASSY

PARIS, April 18.—Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel arrived here at 10 o'clock tonight from Avignon. They were met at the station by Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon and driven to the Bacon residence, where they will remain pending the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt. A large number of people gathered around the station and saw the party off in the automobile.

At a special session of the City Council on April 25 the city will present to the ex-President a commemorative medal.

SAIL TO FRISCO IN 64-FOOT YACHT

In a sixty-four-foot auxiliary schooner yacht—the smallest craft that has ever undertaken such an extraordinary trip—L. A. Norris, a California millionaire, his wife and child and a party of guests will sail from Boston this week for San Francisco. The little vessel is at anchorage off Rowe's wharf and today the work of taking stores and provisions aboard is going on.

The Seafarer will not go around Cape Horn; instead, she will cross the Atlantic, then go through the Mediterranean and the Suez canal. After that her route will lie by way of the Red Sea, until finally, when she reaches the Pacific, the last stretch of her remarkable journey will begin.

SAYS CHURCH WILL FAVOR SOCIALISM

"The church, some day, and not so very far in the future, will be in support of Socialism, and will say 'that's what we said all along,'" said Rabbi Charles Fleischer, who spoke before the Boston Y. M. C. U.. He made the statement that "men to-day do a minimum of thinking," during his talk, which was on the subject of thinking.

He said: "Most of us men might as well go around chewing a cud—sort of glorified man-cows, for all real thinking we do. We like to have our thinking done for us. We see to-day the old fight between the static and the dynamic—between the church and Socialism, and if we live for thirty-five years we will see the church saying 'It's all right and it's just what we said all along.'"

CATHOLIC CLUB TO HOLD DANCE

What promises to be the most important social event in Dorchester Catholic circles this season will be held to-morrow evening when the Dorchester Catholic Club will hold its first annual ball in Intercolonial Hall.

Fully 200 young lady members of the auxiliary have been working like Trojans during the past month to insure success to the affair.

BOSTON WOMAN BRIDE OF CHICAGO CLUBMAN IN SECRET WEDDING

Chicago broker and Boston bride, divorced wife of Robert Morton.

Benton Clement, Chicago clubman and broker, and Mrs. Dorothy Morton, daughter of Herbert Delos Payne of Boston, could not wait to be married until Mrs. Morton's relatives, whom she had left in Europe, could reach America. They were married in Jersey City on March 31, but to give the relatives the first news of the ceremony, delayed the public announcement.

When the announcement was made, one Carroll H. Bryan, a Chicago friend of the bridegroom, brought about what the bridegroom calls a "deplorable incident." For Mr. Bryan created a mystery. It was easily accomplished when as a joke he gave out to a morning newspaper a photograph of Lotta Faust, the late actress. The picture was published and caused a stir. Everybody began to wonder who Mr. Clement had really married. Mr. Bryan sat back and chuckled until Mr. Clement got him on the phone. After Mr. Clement had talked with Mr. Bryan the latter confessed that the joke had not proved to be the success it promised to be.

In the inquiry regarding the identity of Mrs. Clement some said that she was Mrs. Dorothy Morton, and others said she was Miss Dorothy Payne. The mystery had the newspaper men running in circles until Mr. Clement cleared it up. He stated that his wife was the daughter of Herbert Delos Payne of Boston and that two years ago she divorced Robert Morton, taking her maiden name.

"We were married March 31, in Jersey City," said Mr. Clement. "We wanted to be married at once, and our families were both in Europe, Miss Payne having just returned from abroad. So we were married quietly. We did not announce it because we wished to notify our relatives first. Thus the public announcement was not made until they knew of our marriage. We are living at the Hotel La Salle, New York. The action of my friend, Mr. Bryan, in giving out the picture of Lotta Faust as that of Mrs. Clement was a deplorable incident."

FLAMES SWEEP VERMONT TOWN

HYDE PARK, Vt., April 18.—Twenty families are homeless to-day and nineteen buildings are in ashes, in consequence of a fire which originated in the county jail and swept through the business centre of the town. The total loss exceeds $100,000.

A defect in a stove pipe between two floors in the county jail is supposed to have started the fire. From the jail the flames spread to the court house, the Congregational church, the town hall and the stores and residences adjoining on both sides. The two prisoners released from the jail joined the citizens in fighting the fire. Help from Stowe, Johnson and Morristown was summoned by telephone, but a high wind drove the sparks from one building to another, and the fire practically burned itself out.

CARMEN TAKING VOTE ON STRIKE

WORCESTER, April 18.—The employes of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway are taking a strike vote to-day. The counting of the ballots, it is expected, will be completed to-morrow.

Every union employe, whether on a city or suburban line, is expected to vote whether to accept the company's proposition for a maximum of 27 cents per hour, or to strike for a minimum wage of 22½ cents and a maximum of 27½ cents.

The present maximum wage on the Worcester Consolidated is 25 cents an hour, with five cents per day additional for men who have been on the road ten years, and ten cents a day for men who have been on the road fifteen or more years.

NORWOOD METEOR FAKE.

The famous Norwood meteor, the discovery of which a few months ago aroused intense interest throughout the scientific world, is a fake, according to Prof. Frank W. Very, who, with other college authorities, was led to undertake a thorough investigation of it. He says that its composition differed materially from that of all other known aerolites.

50,000 NEW CITIZENS.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Word was received in this city yesterday by Paul Faguet, general agent of the French line, that more than 50,000 immigrants, principally Italian and Greek, are awaiting transportation on steamers of the company at Havre and Bordeaux.

The EVENING AMERICAN guarantees to advertisers the largest circulation by far of any daily newspaper in Boston and over 200,000 more than the next highest evening paper, and over 75,000 more than all the other Boston evening papers combined. Circulation books open to all.

ECUADOR CALLS OUT RESERVES FOR WAR

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, April 18.—The government has called out the First Reserves. About 1,000 paraded the streets shouting for war with Peru. The return of Ecuadorian families from Peru has been made the occasion for great patriotic demonstrations. Guayaquil capitalists have offered the government all the money required for a war.

LABOR

Seventeen cents a dozen for making ladies' underwear is the price paid by a Kingston street firm to its unorganized girl workers, the officials of the Boston Central Labor Union declared to-day after investigating a charge to that effect by Mrs. Charlotte Smith at the C. L. U. meeting yesterday. Michael A. Murphy, president; William H. O'Brien, vice-president; Henry Abrahams, secretary; G. Harry Dunderdale, assistant secretary; Philip H. Sweet, treasurer; John J. Fenton, sergeant-at-arms, as well as the trustees of the organization were unanimously re-elected at this meeting.

Rear Admiral Bowles, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, is severely criticised in three sets of resolutions forwarded to Washington to-day by the officers of the Central Labor Union, Machinists' Union No. 264, and K. of L. District Assembly No. 30 (original). His alleged attempt to "coerce his employes into petitioning Congress to kill the eight-hour clause in the naval appropriations bill" is set forth in detail.

An increase of $1 a week for members of General Teamsters' Union No. 379, which includes the brick, sand, excavating, tipcart and general material teamsters of the city, to-day is being prepared for presentation to the master teamsters following a unanimous vote to make such a demand at the union meeting yesterday. Piano and Furniture Movers' Union No. 343 also has a demand for higher wages pending, to go into effect May 1.

Returns from the unions already voting on the question of parading Labor Day indicate a big turn-out, with good prospects of the Central Labor Unions of Chelsea, Gloucester and Quincy being represented. The teamsters alone expect to have at least 7,000 men in line.

Their day headquarters at Ideal Hall in Tremont street damaged by fire, the officers of Painters' Union No. 11 to-day are out hustling for a new location.

Electrotypers' Union No. 11 holds its eighth annual ball at Odd Fellows' Hall to-night. James Johnson, president of the local, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED OF SOCIETY GIRLS

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Weddings and engagements are furnishing just about all the interest which exists in smart circles these days and "showers" for the prospective brides and engagement teas and receptions keep the younger set busy.

Among the engagements just announced is that of Miss Charlotte Townsend Bafford, daughter of Mrs. John H. Bafford of Boston and Weston, to William Henry Stone of Worcester. Miss Bafford is a granddaughter of the late Charles T. S. Townsend of Milton and is an especial favorite with the younger set. An older sister is Mrs. Ernest Lawrence Parker of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Rogerson of Milton have also announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Kendall K. Smith, Harvard, '01. Mr. Smith is an instructor at Harvard University and is the son of Rev. Emelius W. Smith of the Church of the Ascension in Fall River.

* * *

Close upon the heels of the engagement announced by Mrs. Morgan Dix of her daughter, Miss Margaret Dix, and Charles Lanier Lawrence, comes the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Townsend of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sophie Townsend, to John A. Dix, Miss Dix's only brother. Mr. Dix is a Harvard man and during his college course figured prominently in the smart doings of the Boston fashionable set. Miss Townsend is also very popular among the younger members of the elite. She is, on her father's side, a grand niece by marriage of Nathaniel Thayer, as she is a grand niece of Stephen Van Rensselaer, who married a daughter of William Bayard.

* * *

Mrs. Ernest Braithwait of Newtonville announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Henrietta Mallinson, of Bradford, England, to Harry Walter of Brookline.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Weeks of Swampscott have announced the engagement of their daughter, Glenora Fae, to Marshall S. P. Smith of Roxbury.

* * *

Mrs. Eben S. Draper, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Jr., Mrs. William A. Gaston, Mrs. Francis B. Sears, Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Henry S. Grew, 2d, Mrs. Clifton H. Dwinell, Mrs. Daniel G. Wing, Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, Mrs. F. H. Payne, Mrs. Harry L. Burrage, and Mrs. George B. Warren are among the society women who will serve as patronesses for the dance to be given by the Boston chapter of the American Institute of Banking, in Copley Hall, Wednesday evening. The matrons are Mrs. Frederick H. Curtiss, Mrs. Charles P. Blinn, Jr., and Mrs. Charles E. Nott.

Mrs. Wallace Goodrich is entertaining as her house guest Miss Madeline Dinsmore, daughter of Mrs. William B. Dinsmore of Staatsburg, N. Y.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanford Mann have closed their apartment in the Royal, on Beacon street, and have sailed for Europe, where they will spend the Summer. Mrs. Mann before her marriage was Miss Mary Nash Skidmore of New York.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott will close their town house the last of the month and go to their Summer villa at West Manchester.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowell are guests of the George Baty Blakes at their estate, Pine Needles, at Lenox.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane of Marlboro street have planned to open their Manchester Cottage about the first of May. Mrs. Lane has only recently returned from a long visit with her parents, Professor and Mrs. Basil Gildersleeve, at their home in Baltimore.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Converse will go to their Summer home, the Moorings, at Marion, the last of the month.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frothingham of Lenox and their children are at Atlantic City where they will remain until the last of the week.

Among the Bostonians sailing Saturday from New York were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Curtis of Beacon street, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bemis of Beacon street, Mrs. Wallace L. Pierce and the Misses Virginia and Barbara Pierce of Beacon street.

* * *

The Misses Ellen and Mary Spooner of Marlboro street, are booked to sail for Europe April 26, and have planned to remain abroad three years. The Misses Spooner are sisters of Mrs. Henry H. Fay of Beacon street.

SPANIARDS HONOR AMERICAN GIRL

MADRID, April 18.—The Duke Tamames recently entertained Miss Alexandra Wolff, an American, at a "diner in-time" in his beautiful house in Madrid, out of gratitude for her devoted services to wounded Spanish officers and men during the recent campaign in Melilla. Miss Wolff went as a volunteer nurse attached to the Red Cross Society.

Miss Wolff will soon be received in audience by King Alphonso and it is stated that His Majesty will confer a distinguished Spanish order on her.

New Medical Discovery

For All Skin Troubles

A chemist who was convinced that the old method of taking internal remedies to cure skin diseases was erroneous, has discovered that an extract from a particular part of a well-known tree possessed antiseptic and curative properties on the skin tissues. It was, however, found that this valuable vegetable extract was difficult to compound with other ingredients necessary to present it in a form convenient to use. After further investigations and experiments a method of special treatment was devised, resulting in a combination of ingredients possessing to a marked degree valuable therapeutic properties, the like of which has never before been produced. This important product is known as Cadum. Since its introduction Cadum has cured many cases of chronic eczema and other unsightly, irritating, and distressing skin diseases, and this after other treatments have failed. Cadum stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and begins the healing process with the first application. Its action is still more remarkable in less serious skin troubles, such as hives, pimples, blotches, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, psoriasis, ringworm, rash, chafings, eruptions, sores, itching piles, scurvy, blackheads, scabs, etc. Many of the results effected by Cadum may be truly called remarkable. It destroys disease-producing germs, allays inflammation, and is soothing and healing to the skin. Trial box 10c.; large box 25c.

STATISTICS FOR WEEK IN REAL ESTATE

Statistics of last week's business in the real estate market showed a falling off from those of the corresponding week of last year, although the record was ahead of the same week of 1908. The following table, compiled by the Boston Real Estate Exchange, gives the entries of record at the Suffolk Registry of Deeds for the week.

CATHOLIC TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES TO MEET

Forty-five Catholic temperance societies in and about Boston will be represented by 160 delegates at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of the archdiocese which convenes in Knights of St. Rose Hall, No. 17 Worcester street, South End, tomorrow from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. President John T. Shea of Cambridge presides. Prior to the opening of the session there will be a solemn high mass of requiem for deceased members of the organization in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison avenue, at 10 a. m. The officers of the mass will be: Rev. Maurice J. O'Connor, celebrant; Rev. Charles A. O'Brien, deacon; Rev. James L. Maguire, S. J., sub-deacon. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. James J. Murphy of Salem.

DOROTHY RUSSELL AGAIN WED IS REPORT

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Rialto has a report to-day that Miss Dorothy Russell, daughter of Lillian Russell and former wife of Abbott Einstein, was married in Paris, April 5, to Dunsmuir, of San Francisco, British Columbia and Brazil. They were said to have sailed for South America on a honeymoon trip. Lillian Russell is in Paris, and the young woman's aunt, Miss Ross, is out of the city, and this prevented confirmation of the report.

BOSTON COUNTESS WHO IS ACCUSED OF ART SWINDLES

COUNTESS DE GATIGNY.

Fashionable Boston is discussing with a deal of interest and amazement the news of the arrest at Tours, France, of the Count and Countess De Gatigny, the latter formerly Miss Francesca Lunt of this city, on complaint of Mrs. Charles Hamilton Paine of Boston. It is alleged that the titled pair attempted to dupe the estate of Mr. Paine in a transaction involving spurious paintings. A demand upon the estate for $200,000 is said to have been the direct cause of the arrests.

The Count and Countess are charged with misrepresentation in connection with the sale of paintings. Their chateau has been searched and correspondence and many valueless paintings seized. Some of the paintings are said to have been labeled with notices in order to prove their authenticity, as if they were intended for sale in the United States.

Miss Lunt was well known in Boston and New York society, had a pretty face, and it was hoped she might realize great ambitions. She was a niece of the historian Prescott. Her family resided on Chesnut street in the Winter and in the Summer occupied a spacious estate at Scituate.

Count Daulby de Gatigny came from an ancient family of the Italian nobility. At the time of his marriage to Miss Lunt, he was said to be the possessor of considerable wealth and tales went the rounds concerning his collection of "rare paintings." He was born in England.

Other versions say the man is the son of a London tailor named Dolby, and that, being an artist, he took the name of Count on advice of painters, to help in his profession.

LONG OCEAN TRIP MADE IN OPEN BOAT

PORTLAND, Me., April 18.—Adelph England has reached here from Gloucester in an open boat, twenty-three feet over all. He stopped at Newburyport and Portsmouth. On Saturday he struck a squall. His engine did not work well and for some time he was in constant danger. He was completely tired out when he reached this harbor.

HOLY ROLLERS SPLIT UP OVER END OF WORLD

DUXBURY, April 18.—After a night of dissensions the Spring convention of the Holy Rollers adjourned early to-day without definite date. The sect is now split wide upon the rock of forms of worship.

The conservatives, who disapprove of extreme forms of worship, such as weird dances, flinging of hands and who do not admit that the world will come to an end exactly on June 21, withdrew from the proceedings at 10:30 last night, led by Elder Jarius Osgood of Duxbury.

The radicals maintained possession of the Ashdod chapel where they continued their service till well into the morning. Led by Elder Robertson of Providence, they indulged in wild emotion, manifested through dancing and wild cries.

At 7 o'clock there was a reassembly for final service of prayer, which lasted a half hour. Then came breakfast and a general breaking of camp. Goods were packed up and everyone traveled by barge to Duxbury or Hanover railroad stations, five miles distant, to the nearest trolley points, the same journey's length.

The conservatives claim that Elder Swan, who assumed control of the convention from the start, had no right of leadership over Elder Osgood.

The Beulah [illegible] Spring convention, which broke from Ashdod crowd two years ago, will meet Thursday, and the conservatives say there will be a large attendance.

There seemed to be no definite understanding about the end of the world. It was reported to-day that Eva Brown had said this would come a quarter before noon to-morrow (Patriots' Day). This has been denied, however.

The original prophecy of Miss Brown was that "something" would happen on June 21. The radicals say that indicates the end of the world on that date. The conservatives say that the end of the world is not far off, but they do not know whether it will be on June 21 or some later date.

The next reassembling of the Holy Rollers would be in the Fall, but it was said to-day that Elder Swan of the radicals would call another early in June.

MARATHON RUNNERS ALL READY FOR LONG GRIND OVER ROAD TO-MORROW

A record-breaking field of 187 long-distance runners will compete to-morrow at noon in the fourteenth annual Marathon race under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association. Weather conditions are reported unfavorable for the race, as showers are expected. Under good conditions the race would finish in front of the Exeter street clubhouse at about 2:30.

The record for the twenty-five-mile course is held by Tom Longboat, who established the fast time of 2 hours 24 minutes 24 seconds three years ago.

Unless Bob Fowler of Cambridge or Mike Ryan of New York can accomplish a miracle, this record will probably be unbroken, because of the bad condition of the roads on account of rain.

These two men are picked for winners, but in so big a field it is almost impossible to pick the winner.

Since St. Yves won the race in New York at Washington Heights racing sports have been scary of giving large odds on any runner, and bets on to-morrow's Marathon give great odds to none.

Fowler and Ryan Favorites.

Fowler and Ryan are looked upon as likely winners, however. The Canadian entries are generally good. From the number who are entered from across the Canadian border line the winner of the race may come.

Bob Fowler has run in many Marathon races, and Cambridge racing men declare that he will win the Marathon to-morrow.

Fowler always stands a lot of gruelling on a cold, raw day. Weather of that sort seems to spur him on to greater effort.

Mike Ryan, the strawberry blonde of the Irish-American A. C., has been in Boston since Friday, while Johnny Hayes, the Olympic Marathon champ, has been training him for the long grind.

Peter Foley of Winchester is the oldest man who has entered for the race. He is fifty-two years old. Some talk was given out to-day that he may be disbarred. He has contested in four of these long grinds previously and has felt no ill effects. The officials may give him a chance to run to-morrow.

New York Well Represented.

New York has also entered Harry Jensen, the speedy wearer of the Brazilian cross, of the Pastime A. C., who is a good sticker and is expected to finish among the leaders.

The Canadians are smiling about their men. Which one of the entries they expect to pull off the big stunt they do not say, but they keep smiling so they probably have a first-class man and then some more among the Canadian runners.

Jim Corkery of the Canadian I. A. A. C. is looked upon as a sure winner of one of the first five places. Other Canadians who are booked for the big show are: Jimmy George, the Indian; Bernard Buxton and R. E. MacCormack of the Tecumseh A. C. of Toronto.

Among the other stars entered are:

Henri Renaud, who as a dark horse won the race last year, is entered and feels confident that he will again capture first place. Sammy Mellor of Yonkers, N. Y., winner of the race in 1902, returns once more to the game and feels confident that he will procure the coveted prize. T. J. Grant of Brooklyn, E. L. McTiernen of Worcester, R. F. Piggott of Cambridgeport, David J. Kneeland of Roxbury and W. Wiseman of the South Boston A. C. are also well known to B. A. A. race followers.

PATRONS OF SPORTS HAVE A BIG LIST OF ATHLETIC DOINGS

Every lover of athletics will have an opportunity to be a patron of his favorite sport to-morrow, for in almost every department competitions are scheduled.

The Metropolitan Driving Club will hold six pacing and seven trotting races on the Charles River Speedway in the morning. Over fifty horses are entered. The Fellsway Club has a big card to decide at Combination Park in the afternoon. Eight racing events are on the card at Reading for the matinee of the Quannapowitt Driving Club.

All the golf clubs will formally open their courses. Sixteen clubs have sent notices to their members announcing club events for the day.

The Armory A. A. will have a star program for the followers of the boxing game. Loughrey will meet Honey Mellody in the final bout. Two other bouts are on the card. Johnny Glover meets Billy Clark and Kyle Whitney goes against Bill Hurley at Lawrence.

In base ball the Interscholastic Athletic League will open at the Dunbar avenue grounds at 10 a. m., with English High and Dorchester High as opponents. There will be a host of games between school teams. They are:

Somerville High vs. Rindge M. T. S., at Somerville (forenoon); Somerville High vs. Malden High, at Malden (afternoon); Arlington High vs. Alumni, at Arlington; High School of Commerce vs. Dedham High, at Dedham; Mechanic Arts High vs. Concord High, at Concord; Boston Latin vs. Newton High, at Newton; English High vs. Dorchester High, at Dorchester; Melrose High vs. Lynn E. H. S., at Melrose (forenoon); Wakefield High vs. Woburn High, at Wakefield; Winchester High vs. Reading High, at Winchester; Medford High vs. Worcester High, at Medford (forenoon); Brookline High vs. Alumni, at Brookline; Everett High vs. Chelsea High, at Everett; Waltham High vs. Cambridge Latin, at Waltham (forenoon); Milton High vs. Alumni, at Milton; Boston College High vs. Natick High, at Natick; Revere High vs. Alumni, at Revere; Saugus High vs. Swampscott High, at Swampscott (forenoon); Beverly High vs. Lynn Classical, at Beverly (afternoon); Stoneham High vs. La Salle High, at Stoneham; Salem High vs. Beverly High, at Salem (forenoon).

Several college teams will take advantage of the holiday. Cornell plays Holy Cross at Worcester. Dartmouth meets the Springfield Connecticut State league team both morning and afternoon and Boston University plays Lowell Textile at Lowell.

Then there are the independent teams. The Page class plays Longwood A. A. and the Roger Wolcott team plays the Buchanans at the Dunbar avenue grounds in the afternoon. At Wakefield in the afternoon the Wakefield Association and the North End Unions meet. At the Old Colony League grounds in Quincy in the afternoon Quincy and Boston of the U. S. League will start the season.

A track meet will be held between the teams of Mechanics Arts School and Concord at Concord.

WESTFIELD, April 16.—The local high school baseball nine has arranged its season's schedule as follows: April 19, Connecticut Literary Institute, at Suffield; April 23, open; April 27, M. A. C. Freshmen at Westfield; April 30, Northampton High at Westfield; May 4, Greenfield High at Greenfield; May 6, West Springfield High at Westfield; May 14, Chicopee High at Westfield; May 14, Amherst High at Amherst; May 18, Holyoke High at Westfield; May 20, Springfield High at Springfield; May 25, Chicopee High at Chicopee; May 27, Northampton High at Northampton; June 1, Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham; June 4, Greenfield High at Westfield; June 8, West Springfield High at West Springfield; June 10, Holyoke High at Holyoke; June 15, Amherst High at Westfield; June 17, Springfield High at Westfield.

The local boys are being coached by Mike McAndrews, the Connecticut League player.

EDDIE SHEVLIN TO BOX AT BROCKTON

The Union Club of Brockton has arranged a strong bill for next Friday night. Eddie Shevlin of this city and Willie Moody, who made Eddie go at top speed at the Armory A. A. a few weeks ago will furnish the main bout of twelve rounds. In addition to this pair there will be a special match between Max Landy of this city and Joe O'Brien of Cambridge, and another preliminary of six rounds.

CORNELL AT WORCESTER.

Cornell will be the drawing card at Worcester to-morrow, when on Fitton Field the Holy Cross nine crosses bats with the Ithacans. On Saturday Fordham, the team that defeated Yale Saturday, will be at Holy Cross.

OPERA BALL TEAM IN FIELD

The Boston Opera House will not only be represented during the Summer by a great English opera company, but will have one of the best professional baseball teams in the theatrical world. An offer came from the Metropolitan Opera Company challenging them with a game for April 25, with a guarantee of $100. The Boston Opera baseball team not only accepts this challenge, but are willing to arrange dates with other theatrical teams, with a guarantee to suit themselves. The team consists of the following players:

Jack Shaw, third base, captain; formerly of Worcester, New England League.

Jack Crow, right field; formerly of American Music Hall.

Tony Fallon, catcher; formerly of Columbia College.

Al Cahill, short stop; formerly of Providence, New England League.

Bob Rolland, short stop; formerly of Franklins, Lawrence, Mass.

Charles Canessa, second base; formerly of Fordham College, Chicago.

Ed McBarron, pitcher; formerly of Fordham College, Chicago.

Jim McHugh, first base; formerly of Harvard College.

The team is made up of well known players of the baseball world. Address all mail to Jack Shaw, captain of the Boston Opera Baseball Team, Boston Opera House, Boston, Mass.

FELLSWAY HORSES IN HOLIDAY RACES

Horsemen will have a great day of sport to-morrow afternoon in the meet of the Fellsway Driving Club at Combination Park, Medford, as outside of three class races, with a liberal list of entries, there will be decided a card of eight ribbon events for amateurs. Racing begins promptly at 2:30 o'clock. List of horses entered in purse races follow:

Free-for All.—Purse $60. Alberta G., Onward March, Johnny Smoker, Prairie Queen, Mixedwood, Cascade.

2:25 Trot.—Purse $60: Shimosa, Ora Todd, May Jingles, Rosebud, Red Top, The Doctor.

2:25 Pace.—Purse $60: Venture, Belle Sherwood, Fred S., Bonnie Belle, Barker, Kittie S., Dottie S., Max C.

Each purse race three half-mile heats; every heat a race.

CAPTAIN LITTLE MAY BE IN BROAD JUMP

Captain Clarence Little of the Harvard track team, the intercollegiate sixteen-pound shot champion, may be a competitor at the coming I. A. A. C. meet in spite of the fact that an injured wrist may prevent him from ever putting the weights again.

When Little found that he was probably to be of no use as a shot-putter, he took up broad jumping and has kept so persistently at it that the chances look good for him to win points for the Crimson team.

CLASSY BOUT AT NEW LAWRENCE CLUB

The New Boston Club of Lawrence has paired Kyle Whitney of California with Bill Hurley of Glens Falls for the next meeting, which is scheduled to be held to-morrow night. Whitney is one of the best welterweights in the country, his draw with Mike Twin Sullivan proving his class.

DOVES RELEASE TUCKEY.

The Boston Nationals have released Tom Tuckey, a left-handed pitcher, to the Waterbury club of the Connecticut League.

Tuckey came to Boston from the New Haven club of the same league two seasons ago.

CRITERION A. A. AFTER APRIL 19 GAME

The fast Criterion A. A. has reorganized for the season of 1910 and would like to arrange games with the fastest amateur teams in the State. This team has a good record in the past three seasons and they hope to eclipse all previous records this year. The team will line up as follows: Kilom and Baughman, the latter of Mechanic Arts, will do the pitching, with Kennedy of last year's Monponsett A. A. on the receiving end; the infield will consist of Johnny O'Day and Moody of English High, Rolly, Flynn and Gilmore of Mechanic Arts, Matty Gill, Robson and Witham to cover the outfield. Teams preferred are Andrew A. A., Roger Wolcotts, South Medford A. A., Rivals of Wakefield and Milton B. B. C. Would like to hear from one of the above teams for the 19th. Fred E. Witham, No. 1389 Washington street, Boston, suite 6.

GLIDDEN TOUR PATHFINDER CAR HELD UP

SHEFFIELD, Ala., April 18.—Heavy rain storms, which swelled the streams of Tennessee until they became impassable, kept the American Automobile Association pathfinder car which is mapping the Glidden tour marooned in the hills of the southern part of the State Saturday night. One torrent after another was successfully recorded until Buffalo Creek, sixty-six miles from Nashville, was reached. Here the pathfinder party, headed by Dai H. Lewis, scout of the association, was compelled to seek refuge in a log cabin until the water subsided.

The 119-mile run to Sheffield was completed after the Chalmers thirty had ploughed through red loam roads made very heavy by the water.

In June, when the Glidden tour is made, these roads will be in excellent condition and the streams which hampered the scouting car will be mere rivulets. The American Automobile Association, however, will urge building of bridges so as to open the State of Tennessee to automobile tourists at all seasons. Sheffield will be made a night stopping place for the Cincinnati-Dallas-Chicago run.

JIG STONE AND DUTCH CARR ON AT AMERICAN

This is the week those famous rivals J Stone and Dutch Carr are to have it ou They will mix at the American A. C. Wednesday night and as both have had plent of time to prepare themselves for the affray, the go should be a corker while i lasts.

On this same night Steve Kennedy, the Lawrence crack, meets Kid McDonald of Roslindale, six rounds at 120 pounds. Kennedy will be conceding some weight to McDonald and he will need all his ski to get away with the Roslindale chap.

Two other boys from the Mill City w be seen in action the same night Kenned boxes. They are Kid Wright, 138 pound and Kid Thomas, 105 pounds. Wright, who made a big hit at the Armory a shor while ago by winning over LeFavor, meets Frank Mack of Roxbury for six round and Kid Thomas will take on Tommy Flanagan of Cambridge the same distance.

Johnny Cavil and Benny Burke, both of the North End, complete the rest of the program.

Owing to the length of the card the first bout will be put on promptly at o'clock.

MANAGER DOOIN TRYING TO BUY UP ALL SOUTHPAWS

By JACK PFIESTER.

The left-handers who haven't taken the count in the National League have been corralled by the Phillies. It looks as if Red Dooin is trying to corner the market. A few seasons back the league managers relied greatly on the effectivenes of left-handers. Now the daubers are on the toboggan.

It isn't because the batters have taken to pounding the southpaws that has brought about this condition. On the contrary most of the youngsters breaking into the majors these days simply can't deliver.

Now and then some manager will pick up a young phenom of the left-handed species. Sometimes the phenom will deliver winning ball for an entire season. Sometimes he will hit the coaster half way through the race. That's what happened to Harry Krause, the young left-hander picked up last season by Connie Mack of the Athletics. At the start of the race Krause had little to do. Then all of a sudden he jumped in and started winning games hand over fist. Toward the close of the season Krause struck a bad spell, and many of the clubs hitherto powerless against classy sidewheelers had little difficulty trimming the coast star.

Calls Rucker Best Sidewheeler.

You can talk about sidewheelers till the crows come home, but there is only one Rucker. I know some close students of the game will laugh at this remark, for in the American League there's two great pitchers. I refer to "Doc" White of the Sox and Eddie Plank of the Athletes. But Rucker has everything this pair can show and more. Some fans have spoken of Rucker as the pitcher with the million dollar arm. He has a whole lot besides that pitching whip, too. It takes a lot of craft and brain work to stop some of the teams in the National League, and "Nap" is a past master when it comes to doping out the various batters.

New York has a great left-hander in George Wiltse. When he's right, "Hooks" is a great pitcher. He has a lot of smoke and a fast curve ball that will fool them all. In Mattern and Tuckey the Boston National League club has two boys worth watching. With stronger clubs either pitcher might show consistent winning form.

Take the case of Coveleskie, the Polish pitcher who was traded from Philadelphia to Cincinnati last Winter. Year before last Coveleskie displayed wonderful form against New York just at the time McGraw thought his club had the pennant nailed to the masthead. But it was simply a flash in the pan, for when the season started in 1909 the big Pole couldn't beat a bunch of schoolboys.

Lush an In and Outer.

There's Johnny Lush of the Cardinals. There are some days when he can put the skids under the greatest hitters in the league, and again there come moments when Johnny longs to be alone. With the team Bresnahan has rallied this season I look for Lush to travel a hot race, for he is just as good in cold weather as in midsummer.

Pittsburg is one of the clubs that doesn't monkey with left-hand pitchers. Albert (Lefty) Leifield has long been the lonesome veteran of the Pirates, but against some clubs, notably New York, "Lefty" has his greatest troubles. That's singular, too, for he has the happy faculty of trimming lots of the other clubs that carry dangerous right-hand stickers. Foxen of the Phillies didn't show much last season for his arm wasn't in the best of shape, but I understand he is rounding into form and may be counted on to help Dooin's club win games from the start of the season.

The Cubs have a left-hander in Floyd Kroh, who can stop most of the hard-hitting clubs around the league. With his arm back in condition Kroh is one of the most effective exponents of the cross-fire ball I have ever seen. And nerve!—why, he would tackle a whole team of Wagners, Lajoies and Mitchells. His ability to control the ball is one of his most valuable assets, too.

BOXING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

If Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, lives up to his agreement and fights all the pugilists he has promised to meet he will be continually battling. In every city where Wolgast shows he generally gives his word to some prominent lightweight that he will fight him. His latest declaration is that he will meet Phil Brock if the latter whips Fighting Dick Hyland.

The death knell of prize fighting in the federal district of Mexico was sounded when Governor Landa issued an order at Mexico City prohibiting pugilistic contests in the future.

Joe Choynski is figuring on leaving for Jeffries's training camp in a few days. The transportation has already been wired to Joe.

Billy Papke could not arrange satisfactory terms with the New Orleans promoters who wanted him to meet Hugo Kelly, and so Billy left for the Coast at once.

Ad Wolgast thinks Packey McFarland will have a hard time of it beating Freddie Welsh in England May 30.

BELLEVUE GOLF CLUB ANNOUNCE BIG CARD

The Bellevue Golf Club of Melrose has arranged a fine schedule of tournaments for its members for Saturdays and holidays. To-morrow morning they will hold an eighteen-hole handicap medal play with prizes for the best gross and net scores, and in the afternoon they will have the golf ball sweepstakes with the lower handicap of the two to be the handicap for the pair.

Memorial Day morning the members will have an eighteen home medal play which will be the qualifying rounds for the president's, vice-president's and the treasurer's cups. Those having the twelve lowest gross scores will qualify for the president's cup, the next sixteen for the vice-president's cup and the sixteen next for the treasurer's cup. In the afternoon the first division for the president's cup will be played and the second for the vice president's and the third for treasurer's cup.

The Spring tournament schedule ends July 4 with best ball foresomes in the morning and foursomes in the afternoon.

HARVARD TEAM ARRIVES IN SOUTH

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 18.—The Harvard baseball players, eighteen strong, arrived here last evening in a heavy driving rain, which will likely interfere with practice. Coach Pieper, Managers Wyman and Jones, Trainer James Fallon, Ned Davis, '09; Noburo Masuda, '12, and R. L. Groves, '10, are with the team. E. P. Currier, '09, captain of last year's varsity, called to pay his respects in Washington, and will probably spend part of the week here. The athletes did not repeat their last year's call at the White House, fearing some bad results from the Yale influence prevalent there.

MELLODY WILL HAVE HARD BOUT

It's no easy task to pick out the most attractive of the three ten-round bouts carded for the all star show of the Armory A. A. to-morrow night. Of course it's a cinch there will be some hard hitting when Honey Mellody and Young Loughrey get together, and there will be more science when Dave Deshler and Tommy O'Keefe toe the mark, with the Quaker making a big effort to redeem himself for the downfall he received here at the hands of Ray Bronson. He looked unbeatable up to the time of meeting the Hoosier slugger.

Honey Mellody has been cheering himself that he has come back to his former shape, when he won the welterweight title, and therefore the tough Loughrey is in for a beating, in his opinion. Loughrey is one of the worst wearing down fighters in the game, and if Mellody has his old-time stamina it will surely be tested.

Kilbane will get a thorough workout when he faces Delmont, who always show better with a fast boy, and there is no doubting the speed the Cleveland lad travels.

EFFRIES MAY CHANGE TRAINING QUARTERS TO SANTA CRUZ BY THE SEA

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

JEFFRIES' TRAINING CAMP, Rowardennan, Cal., April 18.—Jim Jeffries and party motored ten miles to Santa Cruz by the sea yesterday afternoon to see a baseball game. About the same time two or three thousand people from Santa Cruz and Watsonville and surrounding towns went to the ball park to see Jim Jeffries. That the baseball game was only a side issue became apparent when in the last half of the ninth inning with the score five to four against the home team Jeffries and his followers left the grounds and the game was temporarily suspended because the big throng of spectators rose and began to trail the big fighter.

Jeffries made a hit with the crowd at Santa Cruz and Santa Cruz made a hit with Jeffries, such a decided hit, in fact, that it is altogether likely that the big fellow will do part of his training there and it is barely possible that Jeffries may shift down to the seaside the latter part of the training season.

After the ball game when Jeffries strolled out on the beach to see the breakers roll in he jogged a few steps in the hard sand near the water edge.

May Change Training.

"This would be a great place for training," said Jeffries. "How about coming down here for training, Sam?" he asked Berger.

Berger told Jeffries if he liked the place it was likely that part of his training work would be arranged for the ocean shore.

Farmer Burns was asked how a seaside resort would be for training.

"It would be fine here. This sea water and air is great for training," declared the farmer with enthusiasm.

It is not likely that with all the months of preparation that have been spent to put the Rowardennan camp in shape that training quarters will be shifted at this late date. But no one, not even those who are closest to Jeffries could tell what turn his whims will take and though it would mean great inconvenience to many friends and a financial loss to the Rowardennan promoters, it would not be surprising if things happened to go contrary to Jeffries' liking around Ben Lomond that he would jump up bag and baggage and jump to Santa Cruz to finish his preparations for the great fight.

The big fellow worked so consistently and long in his gymnasium here this morning that he was not able to get off for Santa Cruz until nearly 2:30 o'clock. All speed was made by the automobile, but Jeffries arrived too late to pitch the first ball as had been arranged. When he entered the grounds the big throng rose and cheered noisily. He was taken out on the diamond and introduced as "undisputed champion of the world," the crowd cheered again and clapped their hands lustily.

Jeffries quietly took a seat on the players' bench and calmly watched the game till it was nearly over. When it seemed sure that Watsonville had won he left and a big mob of people followed him. Fred Swanton was with him and when Jeffries appeared impatient of the crowds' persistent curiosity, they ducked through by a lane of the tent city and returned to the casino barroom.

Crowd Follows Champ.

The crowd was not long in finding him and once he was found they stuck to him. Jeffries sauntered out to the beach. He could hardly move for the press of people on all sides. Down on the water's edge Jeffries' enthusiasm for the Summer resort town found its expression in his sad regret that he had not chosen it for training quarters.

In his usual playful dueling with Dick Adams he almost submerged that dignified gentleman in the surf. Then the big fellow turned suddenly and walked toward the plunge.

"Have you seen Jeffries?" was heard on every side among the crowds that jammed the promenade walk. "Oh, there he goes," someone cried and off tore the crowd in the wake of the fighter.

Finally Jeffries and Swanton slipped through by a secret hallway and found refuge in the latter's private office. After a chat with friends there Jeffries, Sam Berger, Farmer Burns, Dick Adams, Jeffries' nephew and a few others were taken to the St. James Hotel for a dinner which was given them by Manager F. V. Moody of the Santa Cruz ball team.

The party did not get back to Rowardennan until 6 in the evening.

Billy Papke will join Jeffries in a few days and share the latter's training quarters while preparing for his next fight, which probably will be with Frank Klaus of Pittsburg.

A telegram from Papke was received today asking if he might have training accommodations with Jeffries, and Berger, after consulting Jeffries, wired that arrangements could be made for him.

JACK JOHNSON WILL INSIST THA TWELCH REFEREE THE FIGHT

CHICAGO, April 16.—With little more than two weeks intervening before the expiration of the time for selecting a referee for the Johnson-Jeffries fight on July 4, Jack Welch seems to loom up as the most probable and logical boss of the fight. Jack Johnson, the big colored fighter, came out strong to-day for Welch, saying that he believed Welch square and that he would insist upon his selection. The referee must be selected by May 1.

"There will be some fierce wrangling between us unless Welch is selected," said Johnson. "The selection of a refree means much to me. Personally I haven't got anything against any man. From my own experience I have learned that Welch is square and that he is the kind of a man I am looking for—one that will not give me the worst of it."

The weather to-day was anything but such as to encourage the colored champion to work. Yesterday he went out in his touring car and whizzed over about 100 miles of paved streets and muddy country roads. It is now settled that Johnson will leave for the Coast Thursday.

KETCHEL SAYS JOHNSON HAS AWFUL PUNCH

"Can Jack Johnson hit? Like the kick of a mule!" says Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion. "He knocked out three of my teeth with the right hander that put me away at Colma last October and I had to go to the store for new ones. Johnson can punch as hard as anybody, and he's got an eye like a hawk when he cuts loose a blow, but I don't believe he would have knocked me out if I hadn't lost my head. You see in that twelfth round I floored him with a swing on the side of the head and when I saw him kicking on his side I got excited. I thought I had him, and visions of a world's championship with a fortune in gold swam before my eyes. That's just what beat me too, for when Johnson was getting up I rushed in with one idea, to punch his head off then and there.

"Johnson is a good natured chap ordinarily, but he was boiling mad this time and as I came in at full speed he shot out his right hand like an iron crowbar. I never knew just what happened, but they tell me I was flattened like a pancake and was picked up for dead. If I had taken my time and stayed away there's no doubt in my mind I'd have been on my feet at the end of twenty rounds. Of course Johnson was nearly fifty pounds heavier than me, for he weighed 210 and I was just over 160. That made a lot of difference in the power of his blows. But whether he can flatten Jeffries with that right hand wallop or not is something I can't answer now. It's a cinch, in my opinion, that he won't take any chances with Jeff unless he finds that the boilermaker isn't what he used to be.

"Johnson's strongest defensive work in clinches is the use of the hands in grabbing the other fellow's forearms and biceps. He doesn't throw an embrace around your neck or body unless you get in too close. But he takes good care to keep you off as far as possible by pinioning your arms. There's sense in this method because Johnson evidently figures that in blocking his adversary's arms he is going to nullify the force of the blows if he doesn't stop them from landing altogether. Johnson's tremendous reach, coupled with this method of defense, made it hard for me to reach his body or head, but with Jeffries it's going to be much different, for Jim can get to the negro if the latter doesn't run away. I hope Jeff is fit for a long fight and will not grow tired, for Johnson will take his own time and will be ready to go the entire route of forty-five rounds."

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

DID YOU YOUTHFUL BASEBALL players see that full page of amateur challenges in yesterday's SUNDAY AMERICAN? That was the second full page and there will be another next Sunday, and if by that time all of you boys haven't made up your schedules, it will be your own fault. There were games for everyone and the manager who couldn't find something he wanted, would be better off playing ping pong than baseball. If you want to get into the big page next week, send in your challenges early.

THE MEMBERS OF THE ARMORY are strong for these all-star bouts, and I'm pretty strong for Johnny Mooney for the good cards he has arranged. Another of his classy efforts is booked for to-morrow night, and the man who can pick the card is entitled to all the money. Far be it from me to let anyone suspect that I would be so wicked as to gamble for real money, but if a graduate from some guessing school flashes his diploma on me and wants to name the winners he's going to get action for my little eight per.

The three outsiders who appear against the three local boys have made such showings here in former bouts as to boost the quotations on their stock every time they happen along. Young Loughrey has shown here several times and has beaten some of the best. This time he goes against Honey Melody, who has just returned from a long training trip in the wilds of Allan Lodeys' section of Maine. Honey says he is right and will win, but I don't know. The Philadelphia boy is dangerous at all times.

Tommy O'Keefe's popularity was not injured by his defeat at the hands of Ray Bronson, and every patron of the game who saw Johnny Kilbane work recently is anxious to get another look at him in action.

All in all, it looks like one of the best shows put on for a long time, and unless I miss my guess there will be a big crowd of members out to see it.

GIVE A MAN A BIG REPUTATION and then watch the boosters boost him along every time he does anything. Christy Mathewson is one of the greatest pitchers the game ever produced. Even Rush Jones admits that. Saturday he held the Doves down to six hits and won his game. New York and Boston baseball writers used up a lot of space telling about his superb work, which was all right. He did pitch good ball, but looking over the box score I'm unable to see why Kirb White, who pitched for the Doves, isn't entitled to a little pat on the back also. Close scrutiny of the Giants' base-hit column failed to show me any more safeties than the Doves made off Matty, and the Doves erred more frequently. Matty won the game, but I'm doing a little feeble hurrahing for our own pitcher.

JIMMY DeFOREST, WHO HAS BEEN yelling loud and long about Pat Moore being a bantam, has finally got himself into a jam over the little scrapper's weight, which may cause the bout between him and Jimmy Walsh to be pulled off in Boston instead of New York as planned. Jimmy Walsh has been trying to get Moore to box him at 116 pounds for the past two months, but there was nothing stirring in the Moore camp. Jimmy posted $500 with a Boston sporting editor, and although Moore's attention was called to it a dozen times, he wouldn't even take a look. Then the match was made at catch weights, and the Moore people immediately flooded the New York papers with stories that Moore had been unable to get Walsh agree to the weight and had been forced to take the bout at catchweights. All of which was very wide of the truth, and the mystery to me is how the New York sport writers were gullible enough to fall for it. Moore couldn't make 118 pounds unless he cut off one leg, and Walsh is a bantam. It would make a good bout for the Armory, and I hope Johnny Mooney will go after it.

JUDGE MURPHY, FAY ATHLETIC Club.—St. Yves says his name is pronounced Sant Eves. You will notice that the U is silent as in fish.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
What is your opinion of this—I have seen some of the best "pugs" and first-class fighters in action in Boston and from other points as well as home, think that if some of them ever on the street "sassed" some of the college athletes like Coy, Gobel and Sheelin of Yale; Burr and Fish, of Harvard; Cooney of Princeton, and DeWitt, Princeton, that they would get the surprise of their lives. This includes Langford, Ketchel, Bouts, Melody, etc.
Yours truly,
JOHN C. DAVIS.
Boston, Mass.

Your dope looks very, very bad to me, John. I know lots of little ring fighters about half as big as these college stars who would make the big school boys jump high hurdles in the ring, on the street or any place. I imagine Langford could take the entire bunch you name and make them promise to be good.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
A says that football contains more science than baseball. B says no. Your answer decides.
Kindly print this in your valuable column.
FAN.

Really, I'm ashamed of you asking such a question with the baseball season just started and both teams looking so good. Football isn't in it with baseball, and by that same token, baseball won't be in it with football next Thanksgiving.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Will you please inform me as to who had the biggest percentage for pitching, Brown or Mathewson?
H. F.
Whitman, Mass.

Mathewson's percentage was .806, Brown's .750.

JOE BUDREAU, OF SOMERVILLE, the boy who showed real class at the last two amateur meets at the Armory A. A., is anxious to get on a special bout at the Riverside. Joe isn't a bit fussy who he tackles, providing they come in at 115 pounds.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
I am a young fellow about sixteen years old and have fought in several battles in the 105-pound class. Have defeated everyone I have gone up against. I would like to get a few fights and would like to have you help me out by putting this in your column.

BARNEY OLDFIELD BEATEN BY BRAGG

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—In the second heat of the match race between Barney Oldfield, Benz, and Caleb Bragg, Fiat, at two miles, rolling start, Bragg won in 1m. 19.48s., by a remarkable exhibition of driving, and finished three lengths in front. The first to congratulate Bragg was Oldfield.

RAIL BIRDS SEE RIDERS TUNE UP

There was a big crowd of rail birds down at the Revere track yesterday to watch some of the star bike riders go through their stunts for the first meet of the season on the high banked saucer track to-morrow afternoon, the event always being a feature of the opening of the shore resort on Patriots' Day.

Elmer Collins, the pride of Lynn, is in fine condition for such an early period of the season. He wants to beat his two rivals, Menus Bedell of New York and George Wily of Syracuse, the latest comer to the pace ranks in the ten-mile race.

Much interest centres in the spring battles between Frank Kramer, the champion, and Iver Lawson, the Salt Lake flyer, while the field of amateurs is the largest ever seen at the track. The Connolly boys of Everett will have some big stumbling blocks to beat now.

HURLEY HERE FOR BOUT.

Billy Hurley of Glen Falls got in town to-day and went to Harry Goth's place at Northboro to finish his training for his bout with Kyle Whitney of California at Lawrence to-morrow night. The bout is for twelve rounds.

GLOVER FIGHTS CLARKE.

At the Unity Cycle and Athletic Club of Lawrence on the night of April 19 Johnny Glover of South Boston will meet Billy Clarke of Lawrence in the feature contest of twelve rounds.

NO AWARD IN CASE OF TIE IN BIG AUTO TOUR

By J. O. KERRISON.

The rules which are to govern the 1910 national reliability tour of the American Automobile Association for the Glidden and Chicago trophies have been sent to all automobile manufacturers by S. M. Butler, chairman of the contest board. This is the first time in the history of the famous Glidden tour that the rules have been issued in a separate form and far enough in advance of the start of the tour to permit prospective entrants to study them in detail and make their preparations for the contest.

There are two trophy awards this year, the Glidden trophy and the Chicago trophy. Only "stock" cars previously registered as to all of their mechanical details with the contest board will compete for either trophy. All the cars competing for the Glidden trophy will be stock touring cars, while runabouts and miniature tonneaus will compete for the trophy offered by the Chicago Motor Club. In both classes the winners will be those cars finishing the tour with the least number of penalty points. Penalizations will be imposed in accordance with a fixed penalty schedule, which is incorporated in the 1910 contest rules.

Under this schedule cars are penalized from 1 to 500 points, according to the seriousness of the mechanical troubles developed.

In the event of two or more cars finishing with a tied score, as has occurred in former Glidden tours, the rules provide that neither of the trophies shall be awarded; but suitable medals will be issued to the tied cars certifying that they have qualified as winners, and their names will be inscribed upon the trophies. Cars completing the contest with 97 per cent. of the winning scores in each class will be awarded "Glidden certificates" setting forth in detail their performance upon the road and their condition at the final technical examination.

Every entrant must be a member of the American Automobile Association or of one of its affiliated clubs. The cars must be turned over to the technical committee of the contest board on June 13, two days prior to the start of the tour from the city of Cincinnati, O. Each car must carry, constantly, its full equipment, as catalogued by its maker. Considerable additional equipment is permitted under the rules, including tire inflating tanks or pumps. Cars in the Glidden division must carry four or more passengers, and cars in the Chicago trophy class must carry two or more persons.

Entrants will be responsible for the acts of the drivers and passengers in the cars. Time for receiving entries will expire midnight June 1, 1910, at the office of the contest board in New York.

An inventory of all extra parts carried by a car must be furnished prior to the start. There will be no penalty for tire repairs, providing the engine is kept running while such repairs are being made. Time consumed in repairing and replacing tires is to be added to the day's running time.

Time will be allowed for the proper lubrication of cars, filling of gasoline and water tanks, each noon and night, and drivers may be changed as frequently as desired.

A pacemaker will precede the cars each day, and any contestant passing him will be disqualified.

The cars will be run in the seven "Price divisions" of Class A of the 1910 contest rules. Divisions Nos. 4A, 5A, 6A and 7A, comprising cars selling from $1,601 to $4,000 and more, will run on a speed schedule of twenty miles an hour. Cars in divisions Nos. 2A and 3A, costing between $801 and $1,600, will maintain a speed of eighteen miles an hour, and cars in Division 1A, selling for $800 and under, will run at the rate of sixteen miles per hour. Cars must arrive at controls upon their schedule time, plus time lost because of tire troubles. The referee may vary the running schedule should weather conditions demand it.

Good Beer: Wort

A GOOD "foundation" is as important in brewing beer as in building a house. Wort, which may be called the foundation of beer is the liquid which results from mashing the malt. It should be clear and brilliant. Whether it is or not depends on the skill with which the malt is mashed.

Skill is born of experience, and the experience of over fifty years in brewing Pfaff's Beer has perfected the many small details of brewing which go to make up this excellent product.

Pfaff's Beer

Snappy and sure in action, handsome in body lines, strong and enduring, is without a peer among the moderate size automobiles. For five years it has stood the test of exacting service over city streets and country roads. Today competition is as far removed as ever.

Franklin Model G

Franklin Model G is the only touring car of low price strong enough to stand the banging of service, season after season, without going to pieces. With power in plenty for all needs, comfortable always, easy to steer and control, it is the ideal motor car for the family, the real estate man, the farm owner, for any one requiring a general utility automobile.

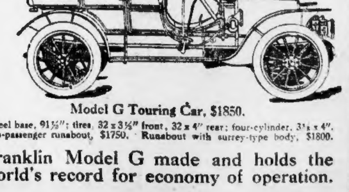
Franklin Model G runabout, powerful, speedy and attractive beyond the usual, is in a class by itself. To the physician or surgeon, the contractor, the business man, the college man, the man about town it appeals because of its usefulness under all conditions. Quick to start, quick to respond to the wheel or lever, it is the motor car for the man of action.

Franklin Model G with single-rumble seat or surrey type of body holds the qualities of the touring car and the runabout.

Comfort, reliability, economy —supreme in a Franklin—

are exemplified in Model G as in all Franklin models. Air cooling, meaning perfect cooling without risk of freezing or overheating, light weight and flexibility, meaning ease in operation and long life, full-elliptic springs, large tires and wood sills, meaning comfort and small repair bills, are characteristic.

Compare Model G with other low-priced automobiles in weight, tire equipment, appearance and service. We have no fear of your verdict.



Model G Touring Car, $1850.

Wheel base, 91½"; tires, 32 x 3½" front, 32 x 4" rear; four-cylinder, 3¼ x 4". Two-passenger runabout, $1750. Runabout with surrey-type body, $1800.

Franklin Model G made and holds the world's record for economy of operation.

MABEL HERBERT URNER SAYS:

To Succeed Concentrate on One Thing

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

SO many people are doing things, and doing them well, that to succeed you should concentrate on some one thing.

It is almost hopeless to expect to excel in several things. In every line the specialist has the better chance for success.

There are far more opportunities for the person who knows some one thing expertly than for the person who has a fair proficiency in many things.

To do some one thing well means a moderate success. To do some one thing better than it is already being done means a great success.

But standards are growing higher. It requires more application, greater concentration of purpose, to succeed now than it ever did before.

To be an expert in any line now means a very advanced degree of expertness. And life is short. You haven't time to learn to do many things as well as you are now required to do them, in order to excel. You need to expend all your time and energy on one thing to compete successfully with those who, too, have specialized in that.

Parents should study the natural bent of their child.

It borders almost on presumption to think you can be successful in several ways when there are many others devoting all their energies to each one of those ways! Do you think your divided, scattered efforts can equal the concentrated efforts of others?

Let Parents Study the Child

If parents would only realize this more. If they would very early find out along what line their child is most apt—whether he has a liking for drawing, or mathematics, or machinery. And then begin at once to train him for an architect, or a civil or electrical engineer, or anything else for which he seems best suited.

If only they would begin in his childhood to direct all his studies and his interests along that line. If they would instil in him that one idea and bring everything to bear upon that, the future of the boy would be assured.

I met a famous civil engineer not long ago. He was essentially a specialist. He knew civil engineering—and almost nothing else. He said he never read a novel or a fiction magazine. If he had time for magazines he read engineering ones. For years all of his time and energy and interests had been devoted to civil engineering. And as a result he has made a great success with an income of many thousands a year.

The very same evening I met a most charming, cultured, versatile and widely read man. He could discuss with equal ease the latest opera or play or most recent exhibition of pictures. He was a Harvard man and spoke several languages. But his dress suit was almost shabby.

He had not specialized. He had taken the general academic college course and had traveled for two years afterward. Then when his father died a bankrupt and he settled down to work he found he had no profession, no specialty. There was nothing he could do with any degree of expertness. He is now a bank clerk at thirty dollars a week.

Many Ways to Specialize

But, aside from the professions, you can specialize in so many ways. You can make a success at almost anything, providing you are willing to devote enough time and energy in order to do it well enough—better than it is ordinarily being done.

Our circuses and vaudeville theatres are made up of people who do one thing well. They may be absurd, freakish things, but if they do them well enough they can command large salaries.

Even the man who walks on his head—if he can walk faster or a greater distance than other head pedestrians (!); or if he can play a jewsharp or eat his dinner at the same time; if in some way he is more expert than others in his line—he can make more money than a man qualified for a college professorship, but who is no better qualified than are many other men for that same position.

Now, if the man who walks on his head (instead of having worked and practiced for several years to gain that proficiency—had begun when he was a boy of ten! If his mother had then decided that he had not much aptitude for books or study or anything else—except, perhaps, a desire to turn somersaults or stand on his head—and had then marked out his career and and then begun to train him for that career, what a remarkable head acrobat he would now be!

By this time he could probably shave himself, or do a sword act while he gracefully waltzed about in that inverted position. And he could, no doubt, earn more money than is paid (you mean more than the government pays) a United States Senator!

As to Some Senators.

And, incidentally, it would be better for the country and much better for their own soul's salvation, if some Senators were now doing honest stunts on their bald heads in a reputable circus than sitting with their feet on their desks in Washington!

By this I do not mean that it is a specially desirable thing to be a circus performer, and that all mothers of not over-bright boys (with a tendency to turn somersaults) should immediately train them for that career.

But I do mean that this illustrates the point. That it is not so much what you do as how well you do it. And that your degree of success is very apt to be governed not by your general knowledge and proficiency in many things, but by your experiences in some one thing.

LOTION

"Speak for Yourself, John---By Nell Brinkley

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

"And your pal and the lady might forget thou'rt alive and fix it up themselves!"

LO! the poor fool who gets his dearest love to his Lady second hand! His feet began to crawl toward one another, toes first, his eyes get like soup bowls, and his (in the soft and startling language of the Orient) liver faints and turns into water, and his soul wishes fervidly that it never had FALLEN into the nets, when he sets himself about making up the words he's going to tell her about it in.

He sees himself walking stiffly in; for about a flash he's a Romeo, a pallid, passionate petitioner, who'd just as soon hire a hall for it, that little he cares, he does!

And then—hoo!—the true vision comes to him, he remembers the rarity of words he has, the legs and the manners he was born with, the white scare that drinks the blood out of him when a woman must be talked to—and then he does this bright little trick: He hires, coaxes, cajoles and threatens his best pal into doing it for him. He can talk to him, all right!

When he's through the other knows that he loves! And so the two of the villains take themselves merrily over the hills, for the sweetheart of him has gone with the Spring into the countryside. And love tags scared and miserable in their footprints.

Lo, the poor fool! He is afraid to see her face if her heart's untouched—he is willing to miss the sight of it if it's warm and willing.

He would go through life with that scented, unfading page, blank—the wonder of telling a smiling woman in candle-shine, or the sunshine, that he loves her, and hear her tell him plain she loves him, too, torn out of his Book of Living.

It's a minute snatched out of the reel of the old world—it is without time. The two of them wade into the lake of the enchantment, down into the valley of the Hollow-Land, where nothing is but flowers and sky and endless love. Deep into fairyland the two of them go for a little, out of the world—and nothing bothers! They swim up again and out of it. Perhaps they will never go so deep again, perhaps they will find meadows and deeps that they never found their first journey—perhaps that will be their last trip into that world that lies out of the world—but they have it bound into their record of Things, tight and safe, never forgotten with its gilt still unrubbed, its dyes as fair, a little hour stolen away from the thunder and tumult of the earth—a little minute in a spell-bound country.

And the poor John who begs some other to speak for him—passes up that wonder!

And then, too, oh wordless fool, your best pal, so good a one as he is, may wax ardent, if they Lady be fair, they might forget thou'rt alive, and fix it up themselves! "Thee'd better tell it thine own self, John!"

LETTERS OF A WORLDLY MOTHER TELLING HER SON

How to Insure a Happy Marriage

By DOROTHY DIX

MY DEAR SON—And so you have found the One Girl in all the world, and she has said "yes," and you are walking with your head among the clouds, dazed and beatific over your good fortune.

Your letter makes me very happy, and yet I wept over it until it was sodden with my tears. I would not have it otherwise with you, and yet every mother who gives her son to another woman goes through the agony of the crucified. I sometimes think that they would be kinder to us, these complacent young daughters-in-law who take our sons from us if they knew what we suffered, we mothers, when we pay our debt to fate, when we see another take the place that was ours, when we know that the door is closed forever on the sweetest chapter in our lives, when we see another hand do the dear little tasks that we have done so long and realize that our boys look to another woman for happiness and comfort—not to us. But they never know, these gay young women, how great is the sacrifice we lay before them until their own sons marry, and then it is too late.

Develop the Sentimental.

Yet I speed you on to your true love with my blessings, boy. I would not selfishly keep you to myself if I could, because while your love would satisfy me, mine would not satisfy you. You must live your life, and the only life in which there is real happiness is the simple, normal life that is made up of home, with the love of a good woman shining through it, and the arms of little children about your neck. No matter what fate gives a man, if it denies him these three things he has missed the best that the world has to bestow.

You are a real man and a gentleman, son, so I will not even suggest that you could be capable of the mean little injustices and tyrannies, but I want you to be the ideal husband, to make your wife happy, and to this end I impress one important point upon you.

It is to cultivate the sentimental. Educate yourself in sentiment, as you have in books. Develop it as you have your business ability.

Does this sound silly to you? Believe me, you will find that it will repay your effort just as much as it will if you plant a beautiful flowering garden about your house that will fill all the rooms with sweetness and perfume. Of course you can get through life without sentiment, son, just as you can go a long, hard journey over arid plains, and desolate deserts, but why choose the dreary route, when you may make the trip by way of silvery streams, and verdant meadows, where birds are singing and the palm trees lift their fronded heads above you?

A great many reasons have been advanced to account for the fact that America leads all civilized countries in the number of divorces. My own explanation is that the reason for this sad state of affairs is because among civilized men there are no other men that pay so little attention to sentiment as American men. We are long on divorce, because we are short on sentiment. Do you catch my idea?

In European countries men cultivate sentiment. Here men despise it. In European countries a man is proud of a reputation for being an exquisite love maker. An American man would sooner be accused of sheep stealing. In European countries a man makes a study of the little delicate attentions that women love, and they religiously observe sentimental anniversaries. An American man has his stenographer telephone to his florist or confectioner to send the girl he admires flowers or candy, and the American woman who has got a husband who remembers the anniversary of the day they were engaged or got married, without having to be reminded of it, has got a freak that she could exhibit in a museum and make money on.

Now, as a matter of fact, the American husband is a better husband, a more faithful, more generous and more considerate husband than the European, but he is not sentimental, and his wife divorces him, while the European wife sticks to her husband, and the moral of all of this is that a woman will stand a lot of bad treatment if it is sugar-coated with sentiment. Nor is this as absurd as it sounds. Most of us would rather have the luxuries than the necessities of life.

The Fallacies of Man

It is one of the misfortunes of the way we are built, son, that a woman can stay a bride for forty years, whereas a man's bridegroomness ends at the altar. He wants then to be done with love-making. He has caught his street car, and for him the chase is over, and he wants to settle down and be comfortable. Why, he asks, tell a woman that he loves her when he has given tangible evidence of the fact by marrying her? Why swear eternal devotion in words when she can see for herself that he is working himself to a frazzle to keep her soft and comfortable? Why take a day off and get nervous prostration trying to buy her a present when she can take a check and go down and get herself exactly what she wants? Why pay her compliments when she knows that he thinks that she is just about right about everything?

Fallacious masculine reasoning! As well might you try to feed a humming bird that lives on dew and honey with slabs of meat as to try to make a woman happy with a love that expresses itself in nothing but receipted grocery bills, and a shopping ticket at a department store. In her heart the woman may not doubt her husband's love, but she perishes on the dry husks of it that are all that are offered her to feed upon.

Can you wonder that a woman who hungers and thirsts for tenderness, for appreciation, for flattery, for love that is warm and vital grows bitter and hard when her husband never gives her any? Can you blame her very much if she takes the love that some other man offers her? We do not stand on fine points of ethics, when we are starving either in body or soul.

The Little Things Count.

Therefore, my son, I urge you by everything by which I can think, to make a study of sentiment as a first aid to success in matrimony. Because you are married do not cease to make love to your wife. Rather speed it up. Notice what she wears. Observe what she does. Make her realize always that everything that concerns her is of genuine importance to you. Take the trouble to discover her tastes, and gratify them.

A ten-cent bunch of violets brought to a woman because they match her gown cut more ice with her than $50 worth of American Beauties sent hit or miss. Don't think that because you have married a girl she failed to shed her sweet tooth, or that she cares less for candy than she did when you were engaged. And above all remember to celebrate every anniversary of sentiment. If you can't recall the day you first met her, and the day you become engaged, and the day you were married any other way, mark them with big black marks in your calendar.

Make a study of sentiment, son, and great shall your reward be, for while a woman may forgive a man for not supporting her, she never forgives him for omitting the delicate little attentions, the little compliments, the little gifts and letters that turn the water of life into wine, and that make any hardships of matrimony worth while.

And so with these few directions by way of chart, I wave you "bon voyage" as you set out to sail the treacherous sea of matrimony. God bless you—and God save you, son! Your loving,

MOTHER.

FOG HORN TALES.

Captain Pinochle Praises the Hook Worm

By HANK

"DER vaves blew high, und der vaves blew low,
Und der sailors hollered, 'Yo! Ho! Ho!'
Und ve sailed along o'er der deep blue sea,
Der ship, der crew, und Gretchen und me."

"Hoo-oo!" blew the Fog Horn from the Lighthouse, interrupting Captain Pinochle's song and causing him to snort in disgust.

"Diss job," he remarked to the Pilot, who had been reading the evening papers, "is a scinch eggcept for der fogs. Den dot fog horn blows mit itself effery dime somebody vants to say somedings or sing somedings. It iss ennuf efen to make me svear."

"Make you swear!" 'exclaimed the Pilot; "It doesn't take the fog horn to make you do that. Swearing seems to be a natural part of your conversation. Anyway, I don't see why you complain about it. You know just when it's timed to blow automatically. Every fifteen minutes, isn't it?"

"Yes, but I keeb forgettings ven id iss dime, und I am alvays most interested in talkings somedings ven 'boo-oo!' off it goes," said the Captain.

Hook Worm—Some Complaint

"Well, that isn't such a cause for complaint, insisted the Pilot. "Now, if you had the hook worm you'd have some reason for kicking."

"Der hook vorm?" questioned the Captain. "Vat you know about that?"

"Why, it's in the paper here," said the Pilot. "It's a terrible scourge. The doctors are all interested in it and are trying to wipe it out. Carnegie has given a whole lot of money to help kill it off in the South."

"Vot, kill der hook vorm?" ejaculated the Captain. "Vot foolishness! Dot is der most useful vorm vot effer vass.'

"What are you talking about?" said the Pilot. "It's a dangerous microbe. It burrows under your skin and finally kills you if not discovered in time."

"Dot iss only ven der hook vorm iss not treated mit kindness," adjured the Captain. "Treat dem kindly und dey vill do most anything for you."

"I think you're crazy," said the Pilot, "but tell me what you mean. You've got nearly fifteen minutes to talk about it before that fog horn blows again."

The Useful Hook Worm

"Vell," said Captain Pinochle, "in der first place id makes der finest bait vot iss."

"Bait?" exclaimed the Pilot.

"Yes, bait," replied the Captain. "Ven I vass sailing mit der schooner Gretchen, named after my vife who vass on boardt at der dime of vich I speak, ve hat a whole lot of hook vorms on der ship. I alvays treated dem kindly und gafe dem dree meals effery day. Vun day Hans, my cabin boy, who vass very bright, tolt me dere vass a school of sharks following der ship und he suggested dot ve catch some. But he said dot dey bat tried to catch dem mit some salt pork on a hook, but dey vould nod bite on it. Den I thought of der hook vorms.

"So Hans und der rest of der crew tied vun of dem to der end of der rope und threw it offerboardt. You see der advantage of der hook vorm vass dot id vas both a hook und a vorm, so all dot vass needed vass der line.

"Vell, der hook vorm iss a very intelligent vorm. Ven id iss used to catch fish id looks just like a vorm until der fish bites id und den id shoots oud its hook und der fish iss caught.

"Vell, as soon as ve cast der line oferboardt mit der hook worm on der end of it der shark makes a grab und vass caught right avay. Id vass fine.

The Married Man's Friend

"Hm-m!" muttered the pilot. "Anything else the hook worm would do?"

"Yes," blandly replied the Captain, "vun day my vife found all der hooks broken on her dress down der back. Vy not sew der hook vorms on vum side of der dress und hook dem into der eyelets on der other side? I thought. Vell, I dit it, und vot do you suppose happened?"

"I give it up. It's too much for me to fathom," said the Pilot.

"Vell," the Captain went on earnestly, "dose hook vorms became so vunderfully trained dot der minute my vife vould put on her dress dey vould hook it up all by demselves! Vot you you tink of dot, hey?"

"What do I think of it?" repeated the Pilot." I think you're the biggest liar——

But the fifteen minutes was up.

"Hoo-oo!" blew the Fog Horn.

What Is Failure?

By WINIFRED BLACK

HERE'S a letter which came in this morning's mail:

Miss Winifred Black:

Dear Madam—Have read your articles in AMERICAN with interest, but regard your recent remarks as unjust.

It's easy enough for you who have won success to speak slightingly of cowards, but do you know anything regarding birth, circumstances or environment of men who are cowards?

It's true I can earn but little, but I work hard for what I do, and people who employ me would speak of me in highest terms, which I can verify at any time. If a man is born with a coward's nature please inform me how he can change this? Then, if this same person was born with an extremely diffident nature, is timid and retiring, consequently has not gone into society or mixed among people and practically has lived like a hermit in this city of millions, while he is almost afraid to speak to people, will you kindly inform me what chance of success has he and what else can he be but a failure, a burden to himself and a continual worry and anxiety to his relatives?

Mine may be an extreme case. I hope so. May God help the rest if there are any others. They have my sympathy, but not yours, I am afraid. Yours respectfully,

A DISCOURAGED, DISHEARTENED,
GOOD-FOR-NOTHING FAILURE.

I don't know who wrote that letter. I wish I did; but I do know that whoever it is, he is not telling the truth about himself. He is not a failure.

How can a man be a failure who works hard and faithfully, and who pleases those for whom he works? What if you are diffident and retiring, my unknown correspondent? Diffidence is not cowardice.

Some of the loudest talking braggarts in the world are the worst cowards, and every one who knows them knows that they are cowards.

As to your relatives. You can't make me believe that any one who writes as clear and sensible and courageous a letter as you have just written has any relatives who are worried and anxious about anything which is his fault.

Your relatives doubtless love and respect you for what you are, a gentle, generous soul. And if you could only stop deprecating yourself long enough you would see it.

Don't think about yourself any more. Think about the other fellow awhile. He may be having a good deal worse time than you are.

See if you can't help him out a little, and the first thing you know you will have some one telling you how they admire you for your courage and your manhood.

Wily Dr. Wiley

By JAMES RAVENSCROFT

THANK you, Dr. Wiley,
For we value very highly
You learned disquisition on the way we are to tell
The eggs, if glad or sad ones;
That is, if good or bad ones;
We've tried it, Dr. Wiley, and it always rings the bell.
Now, Doctor, your attention
We invite to this contention,
That the egg test will apply to men quite generally, we think;
When you throw men out to tussle
With the sea of life, and hustle,
The bad ones mostly stay on top, the good ones mostly sink.

WITH NEVER A CHANCE TO TELL

DID YOU PICK THE TEN BEST NOVELS YET?

Have YOU entered the AMERICAN'S latest prize contest? Have YOU picked out the ten novels that you consider the best and greatest?

If you have not done so, you should "get busy!" Remember you mya be the winner of a prize. Don't delay.

A list of twenty-five novels, which appear from letters thus far received, to be considered the best and greatest novels by AMERICAN readers, was printed in yesterday's AMERICAN. Are the ten books that you would choose in the list? If you consider that some novels, the names of which did not appear in this list, are among the ten which are entitled to first honors, send in your list.

If you have picked out books that are not included in the list published yesterday, don't lose heart. There are plenty of novels which are giving the twenty-five leaders a close run, and it may be that they will eventually be found at the head of the list.

Some Favorite Novels.

"The Spy" is one of the novels that appears to be extremely popular. "Rob Roy," "Silas Marner," "Two Cities," "The Toilers of the Sea," "David Copperfield," "Robinson Crusoe," "Pride and Prejudice," "Westward Ho!" and "Guy Mannering" are among the other novels that are the choice of many of the contestants.

"Les Miserables" appears to be the most popular novel. It heads the list of hundreds of contestants.

Get into the contest, if you have not done so already. It's interesting, instructive, amusing—and renumerative, if you are one of the winners. Here are the conditions:

For the best list the American will give a prize of $10; for the next best a prize of $5, and for the next ten prizes of $1 each. The winning lists will be adjudged by a committee of Boston literary people.

Following are some of the best replies received:

"The Light That Failed."

"Best Novels" Editor:—

The ten best novels, I think, are as follows:

"Les Miserables"—Hugo.
"Ivanhoe"—Scott.
"Romola"—Eliot.
"Under Two Flags"—Ouida.
"The Scarlet Letter"—Hawthorne.
"David Copperfield"—Dickens.
"Ben Hur"—Wallace.
"Uncle Tom's Cabin"—Stowe.
"The Light That Failed"—Kipling.
"Vanity Fair"—Thackeray.

LORETTE C. BERRY.
No. 3 Hancock street, Boston.

Enters Jules Verne.

"Best Novels" Editor:

I trust this list will meet with your approval:

Tom Jones, or the History of a Foundling.—Fielding.
The Pilgrim's Progress.—John Bunyan.
Robinson Crusoe.—Daniel De Foe.
The Count of Monte Cristo.—Alexander Dumas.
Uncle Tom's Cabin.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.
Les Miserables.—Victor Hugo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.—Julius Verne.
David Copperfield.—Charles Dickens.
Hypatia.—Charles Kingsley.
Ben Hur.—General L. Walace.

Very truly yours,
MRS. JAMES S. DOLAN.
No. 312 Beacon street, Somerville.

Zola and Trollope.

"Best Novels" Editor:

As well try to count the sand grains on Revere Beach as to determine which are the ten best novels. It is impossible.

The ones from which I have derived the most pleasure, profit and instruction, and which properly absorbed constitute a fair education, are as follows:

Don Quixote—Cervantes.
Corinne—De Stael.
Soldiers Three—Kipling.
Pickwick Papers—Dickens.
The Wandering Jew—Sue.
Barchester Towers—Trollope.
Paris—Zola.
Anna Karenina—Tolstoi.
Children of the Ghetto—Zangwill.
The Decameron—Boccaccio.

Very respectfully,
JAMES LEE.
No. 102 Summit avenue, Chelsea.

Why Hamlet?

"Best Novels" Editor:

My list:

Hamlet, by Shakespeare.
Gil Blas, by Le Sage.
Cabel Williams, by Godwin.
The Sorrows of Werthe, by Goehte.
Count of Monte Cristo, by Dumas.
Father Goriot, by Honore de Balzac.
Tom Jones, Henry Fielding.
The Vicar of Wakefield, by Goldsmith.
Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, by O. W. Holmes.
Don Quixote, by Cervantes.

H. WHITING.
Box 85, Avon, Mass.

Florida Lands.

FLORIDA FARMS CHEAP

Would you invest in a 5, 10, 20 or 40 acre fruit, vegetable, poultry, pecan or truck farm in Florida's best agricultural district if you could get it for $10 per acre under the market price? We are just opening up a new tract of land in Columbia County, Fla., and while constructing the campaign, we will sell in this vicinity a few tracts on cash or easy payments of $5 per month and at $10 per acre under the market price. We have just issued a beautiful 20 page book, showing pictures of fields and dwellings in our locality all in artistic colors. We will mail you this book free and send you such other advertising matter as will give you a good idea of our proposition. Our land is convenient to two railroads and we have a modern city of 6,000 people in our midst. People who know Florida consider our tract one of the very best propositions in Florida. It is indorsed by bankers, congressmen, farmers and the Board of Trade. COLUMBIA-FLORIDA LAND CO., 818 Times Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

No, the Comet Won't Hurt Us

But It Will Educate Us. And It Will EMPHASIZE OUR FREEDOM FROM FOOLISH FEAR

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

One woman living in one of the smaller Massachusetts towns writes to know what the comet is going to do. And she says: "If it isn't going to do any harm, I wish you would say so, because my daughter is very nervous about it. I hear that it may choke us all with dangerous gases. Is that true?"

A gentleman who lives in a suburb of Chicago writes that there is a good deal of agitation in his neighborhood concerning the comet. He suspects, to quote him, "That the newspapers and business men are hiding the truth, so that they may have a chance to sell things before the comet comes, and not get people discouraged so that they won't buy."

We wish to tell the mother whose daughter is anxious that the daughter may cheer up. The comet will hurt nobody.

And the gentleman in the Chicago suburbs is assured also that it is a harmless, useful, educating kind of a comet. The newspapers and business men are not in a conspiracy to hide its dreadful character. If the newspapers and the big business men knew that the comet meant the end of the world they would either be on their knees praying, if good men, or, if bad men, they would be in lobster palaces spending the last few hours frivolously.

Nobody would care to sell anything, or put the money in the bank, if he thought the world was going to end in May.

This comet, which appears at regular intervals, mysteriously vanishing into distant space and coming back to visit our sun and the little planets around the sun, will not harm us.

There is talk of the gases in the comet's tail. That blazing tail DOES contain cyanogen gas. And cyanogen gas is poisonous. If we had enough of it in our atmosphere we should all die.

But this earth of ours could go right straight through the tail of the comet and we would hardly know it. The cyanogen gas in that comet flying through space at a terrific rate of speed is very widely scattered. And, in addition, that gas is combustible.

You know that when enormous meteorites—solid blocks of stone and metal—strike this atmosphere of ours THEY ARE MELTED AND REDUCED TO DUST BY THE HEAT BEFORE THEY REACH OUR EARTH.

Tens of millions of these meteorites strike our atmosphere every year and fall to the surface of the earth. Only once in a great while one of them is so big that it fails to melt entirely, and some little piece lands here and sinks into the ground.

If the tail of the comet should strike the earth, the heat caused by the impact with this atmosphere would burn up all the cyanogen gas that would come near us. We should never breathe any of it.

The comet really is a sort of celestial educator, and the arrival of this particular comet is a milestone, indicating the progress of humanity toward knowledge.

If you would go back a few tens of thousands of years—when this same comet, at regular intervals, was coming to our little sun—you would find ignorant, cave-dwelling men looking at it in dull wonder. A little later and you would find men farther advanced in some directions, but full of superstition and horror, predicting the end of the world each time a comet flashed into view.

The comet comes to-day; here and there it finds a nervous daughter, or the agitated inhabitants of a Chicago suburb, who think that something may happen. But among those that can read and write the comet finds a friendly welcome free from all fear.

We look at the comet when it comes in a friendly way. We hope it is enjoying itself and attending to its business. We compliment it on the marvellous accuracy and punctuality with which it makes its path through the ages.

And our little earth rolls off attending to ITS business, following in that endless spiral, the mother sun, which warms us and carries us along through space.

Don't worry about the comet. WORRY ABOUT YOURSELF, Worry about the defects in your own character and your own kinds of foolishness, and the various defective immoral gases and inherited difficulties which threaten us.

There is the real enemy.

In Defence of Boston's Crooked Streets

Boston's crooked streets! Boston's congested streets! The streets that every provincial, from Gotham, visiting the Hub has found a fit butt for his ridicule! These same old turning, twisting, thoroughfares that every native has either found delight in quietly "knocking" or at least has ever refused to defend.

Who has not heard of them? Where lives the adult man or woman who has not heard of that impossible stranger at some downtown Boston hotel who, directed to a place half a mile distant, raced out, twisted about and presently found himself—back at his hotel.

A very maze, these Boston streets! Oh, if the generation just now doing things or making much noise and little doing, had only laid out Boston! What a civic Paradise it would have been!

Boston's streets are not congested. Infinitely more may be said in favor of a city of crooked streets, alleys, and cul-de-sacs than one of square corners.

In all nature a locality of curves is more suited for human environment than a thing of angles—acute, right or obtuse.

The proof? Ask Mr. George R. Wadsworth, the well-known civil engineer, of No. 19 Congress street. He knows.

The American is entirely right," he said. "Boston has far more of her downtown area devoted, in proportion to area, to open highways, in the form of streets, narrow, fairly wide and wide, so-called blind alleys, than any other American city. I do not recall the exact percentage in Boston's favor, but it is very large."

If you have ever made twice daily that killing ride in a New York or Chicago rush hour hanging to an elevated strap, glancing out perhaps in hope of early respite and your station, what deadly monotony! Lucky if less than an hour each way is your enforced tribute to the modern industrial Caesars who have thus herded human beings.

Everywhere it is the same. Streets fly by, always at right angles, the same hideous, monotonous brownstone fronts, the high stoops. Never a shrub or a tree. Everything square, hideous, ugly.

What a relief the rounding intersections of Boston! What breaths of fresh air one gets in the innumerable "squares" all over the city so bountifully plotted. Take every blind alley, the cul-de-sacs which you have always insisted ought to have been cut through the block, and in which Boston abounds!

Possibly it had been better had they been cut through. But how infinitely better a half a street than none at all in that same block!

Do you know, you downtown worker, that every time you look out into your despised blind alley you have a boon for which thousands of your class in Gotham would give a deal? Perpetual easement of light and air. A perpetual opening for the fire engines in case of conflagration.

Do you know, too, that every crooked street united with other crooked streets is, as compared with the deadly Gotham gridiron, a short cut for fire engine, teamster, taxicab?

Hurrah for the crooked streets! Three cheers for the fine old, rounded buildings, grateful rests for eyes wearied of gridirons and angles. A blessing on the fathers who, willingly or no, made the perpetual breathing, useful openings of the innumerable squares.

THE FOLLY OF KILLING ANYONE—IF YOU'RE POOR

Written for the Boston American

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal-Examiner

ARE we never to hear the last of the Thaw case—a matter that would have been forgotten years since, and Thaw long ago, probably, been abruptly gathered to his fathers, had it not been for the financial ability of the Thaw family to keep the suit alive in the courts?

Moral: Never shoot anybody unless you have a bank account big enough to feed out to the lawyers, and to stave off an adverse verdict. Unless one is exceptionally good, it is a great mistake for him to be poor.

A lingering echo of the old Thaw-White trial comes back to us in the shape of a suit brought by Counsellor Hartridge to recover $93,000, which, he claims, is due him for fees and expenses in connection with the first Thaw trial.

To Some of Us, $150,000 Seems High Figure

Rand and Osborne, both of whom make their living out of the law, or rather out of their clients, testified, on the stand, that $150,000 or so would be only a fair compensation for services rendered. To those of us who fumble along in the less rapacious walks of life, these seem rather high figures, but however much or however little regard these two lawyers may have for Hartridge personally, it would be no more than natural for them to testify in a way to boom prices in the legal market.

We do not question the integrity of their estimates, but, in dry times, we do, all of us, like to come in under the edge of a shower, even though we may not be able to stand where it rains the hardest.

The really fascinating feature of Osborne's testimony lies in what he seems to consider the real warrant for so large a fee as that claimed by his professional brother.

Stated in untechnical language, it is this: There was no available reason that could be urged why Thaw should not be immediately taken up the river and electrocuted. Some reason, therefore, had got to be invented; something that would thrill the jury by its fascinating novelty.

Hartridge was equal to the emergency. Hence the "brainstorm" theory. Thaw was not crazy; he was simply caught up in a psychic cyclone and while in that momentary condition of irresponsible suspense let fly at White. Nothing could have been simpler, nor yet more profound.

Osborne confesses that the theory didn't work, but there was genius in it; and any theory—workable or not workable—that had as much genius in it was worth well on to half a million dollars.

We are not stating the case in Mr. Osborne's exact words, but trying only to put it forth in our own unprofessional vernacular.

Putting so high a figure on impractical theories opens a new and fascinating field of remunerative industry.

Ex-Governor McLean on the Blue Laws

EX-GOVERNOR GEORGE P. McLEAN has been entertaining himself, and indoctrinating the public with eulogies on the Blue Laws of Connecticut. It is a topic on which only a man with an amount of nerve will venture to speak in terms of encomium.

The Governor was undoubtedly born in Connecticut, at any rate in New England. Originating in this part of the world, he presumably did not come up, but was brought up.

The latter method has its advantages—advantages however that are appreciated only by those whose treatment and discipline have been after that order. Very few people, who have been trained into life, would like to go back, begin over, and simply unfold at the push of their neglected and abandoned impulses.

It hurts to obey, or, at any rate, a boy very likely has to be hurt in order to make him obey, but once he acquires the habit of yielding to authority, he knows that he has something in him that would never have become his by spontaneous development.

There is no cheaper rhetoric indulged in than what is contemptuously expended on Blue Laws and Puritanism. The foundations of our national character were laid in the moral ideas and modes of conduct brought over to our country from the harsh days of Oliver Cromwell; and our present unsettlement of character is due to the degeneracy of the sons of the Pilgrim Fathers, and to the barbaric undiscipline of alien stock that has no Pilgrim Fathers to date back to.

Eulogy Aimed at Sneers Cast Upon Old Laws

Governor McLean's eulogy of old Connecticut laws is aimed at the sneers cast upon them by a gentleman of high official position, but of quite a distinct moral complexion, who reviled certain fanatical Connecticut statutes, not sufficiently versed in the contents of his own Bible to know that they were the translation, into New England vernacular of laws recorded in the old Hebrew scriptures.

It may not be necessary to adopt into modern penology all the punitive methods in vogue among the Hebrews and scripturally indorsed. It may no longer be practicable to stone a man for gathering sticks on the Sabbath.

But any man who talks with belittling scorn about modes of discipline and of administration, inherited from the Jewish economy, ought, first, to be enough of a scholar to know that our civilization is founded upon Judaism and that it is from that source, primarily, that are drawn those elements of moral respect, for moral requirement, which are the fundamental condition of national integrity and stability.

We may be ashamed of our ancestors, but we are, for the most part, that which they have made us; and the fruit we gather grows principally on the trees they planted.
